THE FAVORITE BEATEN

Spokane Wins the Kentucky Derby by a Nose.

THE RECORD BEATEN TWO SECONDS

Many Thousand People Witness the Exciting Race—The Kentuckians Badly Fooled—The Winning Horse Owned in Seattle

LOUISVILLE, May 9.—The spring meeting of the Louisville Jockey Club opened to-day The weather was very fine, and the largest crowd ever known was present, being variously estimated at from 15,000 to 25,000. The track was in good condition, well sprinkled, hard, and safe though two inches of dust, and a little fast.

Everything was eclipsed in the Kentucky derby It has been in sight and hearing for weeks. A great race was expected, and the expectations did not rise to the reality

As three years ago Haggin brought Ben Ali out West to lower the Kentucky Derby record to 2.38¼ Armstrong came to-day with Spokane, and two seconds more disappeared A little crowd of far West turfmen was present, and with little ado they went about backing their favorites. Armstrong a year ago said that he was going to take this, the highest honor of the West. There were not enough coast people present to overcome the immense enthusiasm for the home horse, Proctor Knott and the backing was nearly all one way

The first pool sold this morning was $150 for Knott and $111 for the field and while much better than this was done especially in private bets, this shows the strength of the sentiment. All of the bets against Knott were "snap," and the only reason the Kentuckians are not broke to-night is the lack of man from the West to take their offers.

THE HORSES.

As the horses filed up the track for the great event all appeared to be in perfect condition. Game Chicken, the great Futurity winner, was cheered to the echo as he came out sixth, and the youngest entries who followed were also liberally applauded. Spokane was hardly noticed although a quiet tip was out among some who knew that he had been saved for the occasion

Facing the post, the starters and riders were Sportsman 1 18, Isaac Lewis.
Spokane, 1 18, Kiley
Proctor Knott, 1 18, Barnes.
Once Again 1 18 Murphy
Bookmaker, 1 18 Marwick.
Cassius, 1 18, Taylor.
Outbound, 1 18 Hallis.
Hindoo-Craft, 1 18, Armstrong

The race was run out of the chute. Ferguson had a little difficulty in getting them off together but the start was very even. Hindoo-Craft was in the front, Bookmaker second, and Spokane third.

At the head of the stretch, the position was a little changed, although the crowd was closing upon Knott, who was evidently waiting for the finish.

As they turned the stretch the race commenced, and seldom has such a run been witnessed in America. Knott was let out, but Spokane came up with a tremendous rush. Half way down the stretch Knott swerved and Spokane leaped to the front by two lengths. Barnes wheeled the favorite into line just as they reached the distance stand, and he came up like a bolt. It was too late, however, and Spokane passed under the wire, the winner by a nose, Once Again third, three lengths off. The rest were strung out.

Spokane is owned by Noah Armstrong, of Seattle, Washington Territory He wintered at Memphis. The race was worth $4550 to the winner.

The quarters in the Derby were run as follows First quarter, 24½, half a mile, 48¾ three quarters, 1 14½, one mile, 1 41¾ one mile and a quarter, 2 19

Five furlongs—Spiritless won, Cecil B second, Mary J third time, 1 05.

Five furlongs—Clara C kept in the lead all the way around, and won by a neck from Santa Lone, Terra Cotta being three lengths away McLaughlin rode like a demon down the stretch and could have won on Terra Cotta easily, but thinking that Santa Lone could win, he pulled Terra Cotta almost double, but Santa Lone failed to come to the front, and Clara C took the race After some delay the judges gave the purse to Clara C, but ruled Jockey McLaughlin and Terra Cotta off the track, and declared all bets off, reserving their decision as to placing the other horses. Time, 1 02¾.

Eleven sixteenths of a mile—Golightly won, Bed Leaf second, Montpelier third. Time, 1 10¾

THE ARKANSAS ELECTION FRAUDS.

Arrest of the Young Men Who Burned the Plummerville Ballot Box

LITTLE ROCK Ark, May 9.—The Federal officers think now that the theft of the Plummerville ballot box last November which led up to the assassination of Honorable John M Clayton is cleared up

It appears that several days ago a young man named Warren Taylor was taken before the grand jury and testified that he was in the crowd of young men who went from Morrilltown the county seat to Plummerville on election night as they understood it to preserve peace as trouble was expected When the crowd arrived Plummerville they were halted on the outskirts and five men rode into town Presently they returned and reported everything quiet, and the crowd returned

On the way to Morrilltown the five men gave it out that the Plummerville fund they was to the throw The box was taken into Wells's store a Morrilltown and burned

Thirteen days of July are the means of having a large number of witnesses from Conway county summoned before the grand jury Yesterday, just before the grand jury adjourned indictments were returned, and to-day it was proved that these were indictments for the Plummerville ballot box theft.

The men indicted are O T Bentley Walter P Wells and Charles Ware, charged with unlawfully seizing and carrying away the ballot box and poll books, and the following persons charged with conspiracy in the stealing of the box Charles L Reid Benjamin G White, Thomas C Harney, Wm Palmer, Warren Taylor, Fred Lee Gunter Wm S. Woods, John C Heard and Thad. R. Wells.

Reid is a young lawyer of Morrilltown, and has just been released after conviction in the Federal court of interfering with the election judges. Young Wells is the son of one of the most prominent merchants of Morrilltown. Bentely is deputy sheriff of Conway county, under Sheriff Shelby

Deputy Marshal Fankenburg went to Morrilltown to-day and arrested all of these men, not previously in custody, and brought them here this evening. They were taken before the commissioner and released on bonds in sums ranging from $1000 to $2000 each Their examination will take place at an early day but they cannot be tried until the next term of court, as the appropriation for the trial of criminal cases has been exhausted.

These men are all prominent young men, and their arrests have produced a great sensation.

THE GRAND ARMY INCIDENT.

Governor Gordon, of Georgia, Alludes to It Sentimentously.

ELIZABETH, N J, May 9.—Governor Gordon, of Georgia, was tendered an enthusiastic reception here to-night by the Drake Zouaves and Union veterans.

After the Centennial parade in New York it appears that General Drake and several members of his staff met General Gordon and staff and after a cordial greeting decorated them with badges of various kinds, as a mark of friendship and amity

At a meeting of the Grand Army of the Republic at Brooklyn the next day some impetuous member spoke harshly of this incident, and threatened to have General Drake impeached therefor

Governor Gordon referred to the feeling in this matter to-night, and said that not a single Grand Army badge was bestowed upon him or his staff They were all badges of companies and other organizations. He said that such an exhibition of temper upon so ludicrous a misapprehension was sad. He could trust with a thousand fold more confidence the honor and safety of the republic to the keeping of those worn and battle-scarred veterans who buried their sectional prejudice at Appomattox, and who were glad to exchange soldierly greetings to the sincere man who had fought against them than to trust that republic to men who were unable to hide their passions while doing honor to the memory of Washington.

"The verdict of the tribunal of the future" Governor Gordon said, "has already been practically told in the epitaph placed by a Kentucky father on the tombstone over the grave of his two boys, one of whom died in the federal and the other in the confederate service This epitaph was 'Here lie my brave boys—the one died fighting for the Union, the other for the rights of the states. Each died doing his duty as he conceived it.'"

SYMPATHETIC HAWAIIANS.

The American Sailors Wrecked at Samoa Treated With the Utmost Kindness.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Secretary of State Blaine is in receipt of a dispatch from Merrill, United States minister at Honolulu, dated April 12 last, saying that on the 8th of that month a number of survivors of the wreck of the fleet at Samoa reached Honolulu, where their presence created profound sympathy among the government officials and people of those islands.

In a note of April 8, to Merrill the Hawaiian minister for foreign affairs assures him of the deep sympathy of the Hawaiians with the distress which had thus fallen on the American people generally, and expresses an earnest desire that he (Merrill) will freely avail himself of any possible means at the disposal of the government which may be of service to the officers and men, the survivors of the wreck in question

Merrill promptly returned the thanks of the government of the United States for the kind offer thus made, and the Secretary of the navy, who received a copy of Merrill's note of thanks for the kind expressions of sympathy and service, and the tender of the use of service, asks that the grateful acknowledgments of the navy department be appropriately communicated to his Hawaiian majesty's government

A copy of Secretary Tracy's letter has been forwarded to Mr Merrill in order that his wishes may be fittingly complied with.

TEN MINERS INSTANTLY KILLED.

An Ascending Car Struck by Another Pushed Over the Mouth of the Shaft.

POTTSVILLE Pa, May 9.—At the Kaska Williams colliery near Middleport, this evening, a cage containing ten miners was ascending the shaft and had reached a hight of about fifteen feet from the bottom when an empty car was pushed over the top of the shaft by two Hungarian laborers The car struck the ascending cage with awful momentum, shattering it to splinters and instantly killing every one of its occupants.

The names of the victims are Michael Boyle, assistant inside foreman, Hugh Conlin, Patrick McGrail, George Bendel, John Stotwinich, Frank Stratkovich, John Moore, Albert Swyer Edward Kurtz and Stephen Matson The cage with its victims was hoisted into the "dump," a hole in the bottom of the shaft where water from the works had accumulated, and the mangled bodies were recovered for some time

The mine is operated by the Allen Coal Company It is an old working shaft and is 500 feet deep.

The colliery employs about 500 hands. There is intense indignat on over the employment of stupid Hungarians in a position of such responsibility as at the mouth of the mine There is thirty five feet of water in the "dump" and the work of recovering the bodies is very difficult. At 7 o'clock this evening only one body had been recovered.

A SAD STORY OF ABUSE.

The Depositions of the Patients of the Home for Incurables

CHICAGO, May 9.—The taking of depositions in the suit brought against the management of the Home for Incurables, was begun to-day under order of the court.

The depositions of a number of the inmates of the institution were taken They were generally of a tenor to sustain allegations in the complaint filed a couple of days ago The unfortunates were very loth to testify, a number of them declaring that they would be made to suffer for it Their stories were pitiful, and told of neglect and cruel treatment from the matron and attendants.

Two of the patients testified that on the morning before the night that James Botton died recently, they heard a conversation between Matron Barlow and an attendant, relative to a proposition to tie down Botton's hands, as he was troublesome Mrs Barlow agreed and the next morning Botton was found dead in bed, with his hands tied and his face and eyes blackened by blows

Other inmates testified that a paralytic was forced to walk, without shoes or stockings on the snow from one building to another that patients suffering from chronic dyspepsia were not allowed to have food as prescribed by the physicians, and that they were nearly starved to death that an other patient suffering from a spinal affection, was forced to sit in a stiff, straight back chair, causing him intense suffering, and generally that the patients were treated with abuse and cruelty

THE CANADIAN ROADS.

Conflicting Testimony Before the Senate Committee.

VIEWS OF PRESIDENT VAN HORNE

He Presents Quite a Different Case From That of the American Presidents, Who Call Earnestly for Protection.

NEW YORK, May 9.—The senate interstate commerce committee, resumed its work this morning. President Roberts, of the Pennsylvania road, testified that since the United States began to regulate railroads by special legislation, the latter have been placed at a disadvantage in competition with the railroads of Canada. The effect of the Grand Trunk road being independent of legislation which affects those of the United States is a constant menace to the latter.

"I don't know that at present the Canadian roads do any serious injury to American commerce, but they are in a position to do so at any time the managers see fit."

"What advantages have the Canadian roads over those of the United States"

"The Canadian Pacific is heavily subsidized by the government to encourage the development of the country Both the Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific draw their supplies from England free of duty"

"Can roads in the United States be operated as cheaply as the Canadian roads?

"There is considerable doubt as to the answer to that question."

"What remedy have you to suggest as an amendment to the law that would place American roads and Canadian roads on an equality?"

"I think any foreign corporation doing business here should be subject to the same laws as the roads of our country If Canadian roads are permitted to carry traffic in and out of the United States, they should be made amenable to our laws. Of course we cannot oblige foreign roads to conform to our laws when out of the country, but while they do business within our borders, the same law should apply to both. In fact I am not sure that foreign roads should be allowed the privileges they enjoy in this country, even if under these conditions. I cannot quite understand why foreign roads should be allowed the privileges they enjoy in this country, even if under these conditions. I cannot quite understand why foreign roads should be allowed to go in and out of the United States, while foreign vessels are not allowed to do coasting business with this country

By Senator Gorman—There is a move on foot, I understand, to construct a through line from the Pacific to the Atlantic coast, to connect at either end with a subsidized line of steamers, its object being to take the trade that comes from China and Japan, and transport it to the Eastern coast. What chance in your opinion, do the American roads stand of controlling this trade?

Roberts—The American roads have the first call on such trade, and under equal conditions with the Canadian roads, could control it.

Roberts was in favor of pooling, as the only method by which the different roads in the organization would keep the agreement. Under the old system of pooling, certain of the roads kept a part of the contract, but other conditions arose thereby

By Senator Blair—Then is not the true principle of railroad business combination rather than competition?

Roberts—Hardly I am in favor of fair competition under proper legislation. If this could be brought about, it would be much better than any other process.

President W C Van Horne, of the Canadian Pacific railway was called, and described the Canadian Pacific from Halifax to Vancouver, and thence by a line of subsidized steamships to China, Japan and Australia. The Canadian railroads compete with the American roads for the trade from San Francisco, China, Japan Alaska and some of the trade from Ontario to Manitoba.

Senator Cullom—What per centage of your traffic is taken from the United States?

Van Horne—I do not know the exact figures, but, aside from coal, the per centage is very small. The Transcontinental trade from China and Japan and the Western part of the country, over the Canadian Pacific is constantly increasing. It is about 12 to 15 per cent of all Western and Pacific trade

Adjourned for an hour.

"The impression is general," said President Van Horne, "that the relations of the Canadian Pacific road with the government are exceedingly intimate, but I assure you that the relations are anything but intimate, and not as cordial or intimate as those between the Pennsylvania road and the government at Washington Then nearly all of our rails and materials came from the United States. Altogether, we have no advantage over the American lines although labor is somewhat cheaper with us The greater portion of our coal comes from Pennsylvania and Ohio, and therefore costs us more than it does your roads."

Van Horne was followed by President and General Manager Newell, of the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern He testified that his road suffered severely from the competition practices of the Canadian roads, and offered to furnish the committee with documentary evidence of the unfair dealings and methods of the Grand Trunk railway, in particular, which he said was now one of the largest carriers out of Chicago. Chairman Cullom accepted his offer

President and General Manager Ledyard, of the Michigan Central, said that his road was doing business rapidly by reason of the fact that the Canadian roads were practically free to do as they please, while the American railroads are hampered by the interstate law. Ledyard was quite bitter against the Canadian railroads, and favored special legislation against them.

THE ATCHISON, TOPEKA & SANTA FE.

Annual Meeting of the Stockholders and Election of Directors.

TOPEKA Kan May 9.—At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railway here to-day 621 811 shares were represented. This was the largest vote ever cast at a meeting of the company, being 110,000 shares more than ever before represented.

A unanimous vote was cast for the following directors Benj F Cheney Wm B. Strong and A F Spear of Boston, C. K. Holliday, of Topeka; T P Purcell, of Manhattan, Kansas; A. S. Kyerin, of Emporia George C Magoun and Thomas Baring of New York Oliver W Peabody and George C Crocker, of Boston, Edwin H. Abbott, of Cambridge Mass, and William Libby and John Mc[illegible] of New York. The last six are new members elected in place of A. W Kickerson, George O Shattuck, J T Burr, Warren Sawyer, W. F. Wharton and C R. Codman of Boston.

The annual report was presented, adopted and ordered to be distributed to the stockholders.

The newly elected board of directors re-elected the old officers Subsequently the resignation of C W Smith first vice president was presented, to take effect June 7 and was adopted.

At the request of Strong, resolutions were passed transferring the president's office from Boston to Chicago

A number of changes in the by laws were presented, and a plan to provide for a change in organization

The president a removal to the West to give his entire attention to the management of the property rendered it desirable that the functions of the chairman of the board should be somewhat enlarged upon the basis which has been found to work so well in the cases of other large systems.

George C Magoun was elected chairman of the board, and executive and finance committees were elected, consisting of Magoun, Strong, Cheney, Spear, Baring Peabody and Abbott.

Before the adjournment, Strong expressed his thanks to the board for this marked expression of confidence in his management, and said that his fullest powers would be devoted to producing the best results by way of economics and the enlargement of the company in the interest of the stockholders The board expressed their full confidence in his management and their determination to give him their heartiest co operation with the object of securing the largest benefit to the stockholders.

SOLDIERS HAVE A BANQUET.

The Fourth Annual Banquet of Oregon Commandery of the Loyal Legion.

Grand Army Hall the Scene of a Great Deal of Mutual Jollity—Captain B B Tuttle Elected Commander

Grand Army hall was full of jollity last night that jollity that asserts itself when the boys who wore the blue meet to tell tales of the war and discuss the savory viands. It was the fourth annual banquet of Oregon Commandery of the military order of the Loyal Legion of the United States which is composed of men who served as officers of the Union army in the great struggle for the abolition of slavery and for national unity. At 9:30 fifty one gentlemen seated themselves around the tables that groaned beneath the weight of good things prepared by Freimann. General Wilcox, as the retiring commander, sat at the head of the table with Gene al John Gibbon on his right and Mr H W Scott of the Oregonian on his left. The other guests present were Colonel D F Bush Captain G F Cantin Major J C Cochran Colonel John M Drake Maj S R Harris Lieutenant George Scott Sam Hyman Lieutenant W A Jordan Lieutenant William Sharp Captain J E Lombard Major A Sears Lieutenant W J Shipley Captain R S Tuttle D Williams B W Wilmot E B McFarlane Colonel Charles F Shelton General W H H Beadle Captain J J Bates Major H C Bostwick Captain M Crawford Captain J J Hallen Captain J A Varney Captain George Loomis Lieutenant Colonel William Kapus Captain J T Newland Lieutenant W S Myers Lieutenant W N Ladue Captain I O McCown Lieutenant W S Newburg Lieutenant Martin Lewis Junior Lieutenant S Tyner Lieutenant W Thompson Frank Mulligan Major Colonel D C Gilbert Lieutenant R C O Brien Lieutenant W B Black well M E Bell Carr Lieutenant A M Holton General John Gibbon Colonel T M Anderson Lieutenant John Murphy Captain W B Hatten Colonel Robert Pollock Captain L A Woodruff Major H E Jones Lieutenant J D Geoghegan, Col W H Leasck Major D W Burrel Major Surgeon Major W F Watson Major M Hunt General Rufus Ingalls Mr W H Bell Capt J A Sladden.

The banquet presented a pretty scene. There were potted plants on the tables at different points along the walls which were adorned with pictures. The west platform was covered with potted plants and over it was suspended a large bell of flags and rosebuds. Behind Chairman Kapus on the wall hung a large painting of Grant on horseback. In the center of the hall on a table whose legs represented cannon was a large beautiful bouquet of cut flowers and above it suspended to the wood ceiling by a rubber tube was another large bouquet. In the anteroom an orchestra was stationed and the discussion of dinner was enlivened by tuneful strains.

The champagne corks had been popping for an hour when Chairman Kapus at 11 o'clock rapped for order and bid all a hearty welcome to the festal board. He then delivered a pretty address touching on the Loyal Legion and the service the Union soldier did for their country. The other toasts responded to were as follows:

The President of the United States—Colonel S R Harrington.

The Loyal Legion—Colonel T M Anderson.

The Volunteer Soldier—Comrade A B Mc Elroy's partner and commander G A R.

"Our Departed Companions"—(In silence.)

"Sweethearts and Wives"—Major J R Hayden.

The music was indeed superb and roused the martial spirit of the veterans. They clapped their hands to keep time with nearly every rendition. The playing of "The Girl I Left Behind Me" provoked lots of enthusiasm.

He was at the first battle of Bull Run and when the commission that he caused was still running which he returned home and enlisted in the First Connecticut cavalry. He served two years in the ranks and as a non commissioned officer and went home the captain of his company. Captain Tuttle was in General Sheridan's corps and General Custer was his division commander. Colonel Thomas M Anderson the new senior vice commander is the commandant of the post at Vancouver barracks. He comes of good fighting stock being a nephew of Major Anderson the gallant defender of Fort Sumter. He enlisted April 20 1861, in the sixth Ohio volunteer infantry and was shortly after transferred to the Fifth cavalry and then to the Twelfth infantry, a battalion of which he commanded during the remainder of the war. He was attached to the army of the Potomac and took part in sixteen battles.

THE OLD SETTLER.

Chairman Kapus thought that singing would impart pleasure to the occasion, and called on Captain Tuttle and Majors O Brien and Hayden to favor the banqueters. They sang "Rally Around the Camp Fire" amid great enthusiasm.

Major O Brien then sang "The Old Settler." He was frequently interrupted with applause. After he had finished Captain Tuttle arose and said he had been requested to announce that Major O Brien was in the real estate business at Olympia. This sally created a great deal of enthusiasm. Applauded Major O Brien's song.

CLAIMED BY TWO WOMEN

The Law Is to Decide Whether Lorenzo Winters Has Committed Polygamy or Not

Lorenzo Winters of Gresham Multnomah county was arrested on Wednesday evening on a charge of polygamy preferred by a woman who gives her name as Mary Baker. Winters claims to be his lawfully wedded wife. He was to have had an examination before Justice Tuttle yesterday afternoon but owing to the absence of an important witness the hearing was continued until to morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Winters claims to be innocent of the charge and says he has ample proof to corroborate his denial. He says he married his first wife in 1872 with whom he lived twenty four years until she died in Powell's valley in 1880. Three weeks after the funeral he went East to visit relatives. Near Syracuse N Y he became acquainted with and married Mrs Mary Baker. The latter told him that she had been married but had a bill of separation from which he inferred that she had been divorced. After arriving in this city, Winters alleges he found out the woman had no legal right to marry him, and they separated. She sues for a portion of his property, but must defeat at the hands of the law.

Winters subsequently married one Hannah E Hansen with whom he is now living—claiming that he had a legal right to do so.

After his separation from the second matrimonial partner Winters claims she signed the appended agreement which he supposed would release him from any connection with her:

THE UNUSUAL AGREEMENT

"I Mary Baker Winters, hereby state that on the 17th of November 1888 at Syracuse N Y I was married to one Lorenzo Winters and came with him to this state of Oregon living, with him as his wife until about the 3d of April 1888. At the time of such marriage with Winters one George Baker, to who I had been previously married was living and then in Schuyler N Y. I had never been divorced from said Baker but we had been separated about twelve years by articles of separation and I supposed that I had a right to marry again.

"I am now advised that my marriage with said Winters was not lawful and absolutely void and being desirous of returning to my former home, I have this 18th day of June 1888, accepted and received from said Lorenzo Winters the sum of $150 in full satisfaction of all claims and demands of whatsoever nature or kind that I may or might have against him by reason of our relations aforesaid or otherwise. And I hereby agree to return to my former home within six months from date hereof. MARY B WINTERS.

Sworn to and subscribed before me on this 18th day of June 1888. B F ROLLINS

ACCIDENTAL DROWNING

The Coroner's Jury Believe This Is How Dennis Kelly Met His Death.

Coroner DeLin held an inquest yesterday afternoon on the remains of Dennis Kelly drowned while attempting to board the steamer Willamette, on which he was employed as coal passer, Wednesday night.

Captain C K. Hanson of the Willamette the first witness testified. I know the deceased his name is Dennis Kelly. aged about 29 years an Irishman by birth, he was employed on the Willamette as coal passer; about 11 o'clock last night I heard some one cry out that a man had fallen overboard. I immediately dressed myself, and came on deck. I ordered the officers of the ship to get a grappling iron and recover the body. we worked for about an hour, last night and being unable to find the body, gave up the search until this morning, when the dragging was again commenced and the body found between the steamer and the dock. This is all I know of the affair with the exception that the body at the morgue is the remains of Dennis Kelly.

Peter Quellan a coal passer employed on the Willamette testified. I was acquainted with the deceased Dennis Kelly. I last saw him after last night between 11 and 12 o'clock. we were coming up underneath the coal pockets to go on the ship. we had had a few glasses of beer, but Kelly was capable of walking. he was not intoxicated, he was walking along near the center of the coal packed when he said "that is not our ship." I left him to go ahead and find the gangway I found it and the next minute heard a splash in the water I ran back shouting that a man had fallen overboard, I called to Kelly to hold on the piles and I would get help. I looked down where he had fallen but saw no signs of life. In my opinion Kelly after I left him to look for the gangway, fell while trying to step from the wharf to the bulwarks of the ship and missed his footing.

Several other witnesses were examined, but their testimony did not differ materially from the foregoing.

Thomas B Perry, M D testified. I have examined the body of Dennis Kelly and I found no marks of violence on his body. On examination of his head I found a lacerated wound of the scalp beginning near the crown of the head, extending forward about two inches leaving the bone of the skull bare. There was no fracture of the skull. The injuries were not sufficient to occasion death. In my opinion death was caused from drowning. He might have struck his head against something while falling and become unconscious and unable to make an effort to save himself.

The jury returned a verdict of accidental drowning.

WILL ARRIVE AT 4 P M

Z T Wright's Immense Train of Advance Threshers to Arrive in Portland To-day.

The large train of Advance threshers from Battle Creek, Michigan will arrive in Portland at 4 30 this afternoon. This is the only special freight train that ever crossed the continent that had a special printed time card for the entire trip. The C B & Q R R had this special time card printed before the departure of the train from the East and it has been run on strictly schedule time all the way through. There are more threshers on this single train than any farm in Portland has ever yet shipped during an entire season. In addition to the threshers on the train of which there are seventy two there are a number of engines and horse powers in the consignment. It is learned from Mr Wright that this shipment is only a portion of the order that he has already placed with the Advance Thresher Company for this season. To give some little idea of the importance of this shipment it can be stated that if these threshers were strung out one behind the other they would reach for nearly a distance of twelve blocks. The train is in charge of Mr Clarence L. Wright a younger brother of Mr Z T Wright and the former enjoys the distinction of making the first visit to the coast in the full enjoyment of a special train, he being the only passenger on this train. Mr C L. Wright expects to make his home in the future on this coast. It is further learned from Mr Wright that last summer he was short over thirty machines and it was this that induced him to make this enormous shipment this year. He will make every endeavor to fill all orders received during the present year, but he advises all parties who desire threshers to send in their orders as early as possible. Mr Wright says that the Advance thresher is the only machine in the market that will stand crowding up to its full capacity in constant threshing and not waste the grain, and as farmers are like all others of the times they making every attempt to do everything in a hurry they have found by careful trial that the Advance thresher is the best machine in the market to-day. Mr Wright expects to all interested to be on hand and see the big train come in. His immense warerooms and offices are at the foot of Morrison street and he will take great pleasure here in explaining the merits of the Advance thresher to all who may be interested in it.

JANAUSCHEK'S FAREWELL PERFORMANCE

The great tragedienne Janauschek and her excellent company gave their farewell performance at the New York theater last night in Meg Merrilies. There was a good house and the every moving critical situations of this thrilling play were followed very closely by the eager listeners. Janauschek acted the part of the weird witch Meg in her usual faultless style and the rest of her company were fully up to the usual standard in the delineation of their respective parts.

The company left on the 11 o'clock train last night for Tacoma. Two engagements will be played at the opening of the new theater at that place and then the company proceeds to Seattle where they will hold the boards for three nights.

FRANK JACHETTA'S TRIAL.

He Answers the Charge of Killing Charles Olsen Last February.

The Prisoner Claims the Dead Man Committed in Self Defense—Testimony—Bad Character of "Crawfish"—Case Argued.

Frank Jachetta the little Italian who slew and killed Charles Olsen in a row in Brunn's saloon tried before Judge Stearns in the criminal court yesterday. He looked worried as if he had been brooding, and was a little nervous still he told his story in a straightforward way without flinching, and withstood the cross fire well in recounting the circumstances of accident upon the drag to death of Olsen he gave dramatic pressure to the fatal shot he received and other incidents connected with the killing.

The prosecution had been unable to find Skookum Bill who was with Olsen when he was killed and the principal witness was Jim Kelly a witness to the fatal shot. His story was that Jachetta struck Olsen first for which he received a blow in the face that staggered him. Olsen then retaliated, and Jachetta regaining his feet drew his revolver and fired saying. That that

JACHETTA TELLS OF THE KILLING.

After counsel had finished a squabble Jachetta was sworn. Talking in broken English he told what seemed to be a straightforward story and adhered to it with a tenacity that baffled every effort of the district attorney to shake him.

He said that on the night of the shooting he ran across Olsen and his companion Skookum Bill, whom he knew in North Portland not far from the saloon. Olsen called Frank over, when the two met Olsen and the other man said to him "Hello, Dago money. Just then Frank the saloon keeper, came up to the trio and addressing Jachetta, said: "What are you doing with these loafers, why don't you go home?" Jachetta said he then started for the Home hotel but after Frank had left Olsen and his companion took him to a saloon but the barkeeper refused to give them drinks. He then made his second start for the hotel when he reached it he found the door locked. Not wishing to go toward the river he returned to First street, when the man took hold of him and conducted him to another saloon. Jachetta noticed from the signs made by his companions and the barkeeper that they intended to make him foot the bill so he took out his pocket book. Having ten cents on the counter he ran from Olsen and Skookum Bill followed and overtaking him on the side walk, caught him around the neck and without saying a word began pummeling him. Then they knocked him down and kicked him in the nose, back and breast. Jachetta said he caught hold of a bar or awning and regaining his feet, fired at random.

"Why did you shoot the pistol?" asked Judge Caples.

The men were beating me and I was afraid of my life, answered the witness.

Were you bleeding?

I was bleeding from the face and mouth.

District Attorney Medinn put Jachetta through a severe cross examination but failed to shake him. He tried to make the witness explain why he did not kill Skookum Bill also, as he was as guilty as Olsen.

Why did you not fire two shots instead of one? he asked.

I was stunned and fired at random. I fired to save my life because I thought it was best.

Why did you not kill them both?

I did not want to kill a hundred men.

L P Kendall a saloonkeeper, testified that on the night of the shooting Jachetta, Olsen who was drunk and the other man were refused drinks at his place.

Frank Olsson a saloonkeeper at No 65 North First street, said he advised Jachetta to go home when he saw the three men together. One of the men, a small man, presumably Olsen said, "Go home yourself." Then the two men took hold of Jachetta and took him on First street.

Dr Keyes told of examining Jachetta four days after the shooting and finding him bruised, the effect of the thrashing he received.

The last wrangle of the attorneys was over the admission of testimony as to Olsen's character. Judge Stearns overruled the prosecution's objections and Officers Belcher Branch James Miller, Hickey Watson Hoxie and several others said Olsen was a bad man. Then several Italian witnesses gave the prisoner a good character.

Judge Stearns adjourned the court at a little past 5 o'clock and stated that there would be an evening session at 7 30 P M.

At the appointed hour court reconvened, and the taking of testimony for the defense was resumed. Several more witnesses were called to testify regarding the good character of the defendant, Jachetta, and with that, all the evidence was in.

The case was argued by counsel and the court adjourned at a late hour.

OTHER COAST EVENTS.

The Charleston to Make Another Trial Trip To-Day,

AND PERHAPS THE SUPREME TEST

Work of the Senate Committee on Trade and Commerce—Two Schooners Swept Ashore, and Two Men Drowned—Coast Notes.

SANTA BARBARA May 9.—The cruiser Charleston has remained at anchor in the harbor with her fires banked up to noon to-day, and a decision has been reached not to start upon the four hours trial run to-day The naval engineers have been busy all day in working up the records taken of the performances of the engines on the down and trip

So far as the observations have gone the results are in favor of the Charleston, when compared with the official records of her sister ship in the Japanese navy When the Charleston was run using at fourteen knots, the two easy steam pressure representing only a small per centage of the horse power which she is hoped to be able to develop when under forced draught although the precise calculations have not yet been concluded

The final touches are being given the machinery and the engineers and firemen are being given a thorough rest for the heavy work required of them, when the engine rooms will be closed and four hours of working the engines under forced draught will be required of them

A decision will be reached to-night, and it is regarded as possible that the cruiser may even run to a mile in length and six feet in width Ore has been smelted in this city and goes $70 per ton in silver and 40 per cent lead The find is the first of the kind on the west side of the Cascades in Washington Many have signified their intention of going to the new Eldorado.

WILL PUT TO SEA TO-DAY

SANTA BARBARA, May 9—The cruiser Charleston will put to sea again early to-morrow morning During the day the naval engineers have been working with the results shown by cards taken during the downward passage to Goleta the horse-power developed. The maximum horse-power shows was about 3800, under which impulse the ship was driven at a speed exceeding fourteen knots, The problem now facing the cruiser is the attainment of 7000 horse power, desired by the government, which will probably be solved during the cruise entered upon to morrow providing the engines will behave as well as during the twenty hours steaming her arrival here To this end any imperfections in the steel crosshead of one of the high pressure cylinders have been sought, to prevent any difficulty on its account.

The cruiser will probably be turned south, and provided the compound engines work smoothly, the furnace rooms will be closed, a forced draft will be employed, and with the ship headed up channel she will make the first attempt to test her propelling power

The representatives of the Union Iron Works on board express neither doubt nor confidence as to the result, beyond declaring that the ship will exceed expectations, if she is capable of successfully doing the work cut out for her on first trial If she does not, and it is found necessary, after making the necessary changes, to subject the engines to a still longer test in order to enables them to drop into easy working condition, the cruise will be extended over to morrow for that purpose, and the docking will not occur until Saturday If the ship successfully meets the test to-morrow, she will probably be off Point Conception at the close of the run, and will probably maintain her way on to San Francisco

In the event of a decision not to enter upon the government test to morrow, she will probably return to this harbor

Comparisons made of the cruiser's run yesterday with the results made by fast Japanese cruisers of the same class as to be in favor of the Charleston, up to the point attempted in developing her horse-power The Japanese cruiser Tsucshito Jan, which is a protégé of the Charleston, making seventy two revolutions of her propeller in yesterday harbor, developed 1849 horse-power, and a speed of eleven and fifty three hundredths knots, while the engines of the Charleston, with seventy revolutions, developed 1419 horse power, and drove her at a speed of thirteen knots

TRIAL OF THE PETREL.

BALTIMORE May 9—A private trial of the new government gunboat Petrel, which was built by the Columbian Iron works of this city, was made to-day and was a success. She averaged ninety fifteen knots with her engines working 110 revolutions a minute and on the last quarter nearly seventeen knots. It took one minute and thirty seconds to stop her when going at full speed and twenty-eight seconds from full speed to reverse her The best test was made when she ran seventeen knots with 115 revolutions.

COMMITTEE ON TRADE RELATIONS

Some of the Members Visit the Fortifications at San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO May 9.—A party consisting of Senators Dolph, Hoar, Allison, Pugh Hale and Frankfort and several ladies and gentlemen visited the fortifications on the bay this morning At this afternoon a session of the senate committee on the trade relations with Canada, representatives of the Board of Trade, the Pacific Pine Lumber Company and the Chamber of Commerce and the manufacturers' association were present.

Colonel Harvey, president of the manufacturers' association, and secretary of the Golden Gate Woolen Mills, gave testimony relative to the woolen manufactures of the coast. The woolen trade has little to do with Canada. The Mexican and Central American ports are considered of more lucrative value. Fine Australian wool is a great value in this market for blending with the home product.

A. S Hallidie of the California Wire Works, urged that the need of reciprocity with Mexico, but opposed the reduction of duties on Dominion products.

N. W Spaulding of the Pacific Saw Manufactory, opposed a reduction in Canadian tariffs. He favors reciprocity with a country that does not make his goods.

President Rankin, of the chamber of Commerce, read a paper on California interests, giving statistics regarding the trade of the port of San Francisco. Of coal imported into California, about two-thirds, he said, comes from British possessions.

W. L. Merry, of the Chamber of Commerce read a paper on American shipping interests in the Pacific. He suggested the subsidising of American steamers and the institution of measures of relief for American sailing vessels.

Captain Goddard presented to the committee statistics of the whaling and cod fish industries of the coast, and other information asked for by the senators on Wednesday

President Jacobs of the canned goods association, said the association could ship cheaper by the Canadian Pacific than by the home roads. Last year the pack of canned goods was 600,000 cases. Owing to exorbitant transcontinental freight rates, the pack for this year will not be more that 500 000 cases. Some of the canneries will not open at all The result of the workings of the interstate commerce act, he said, is very disadvantageous to the Pacific coast.

An Oakland Paper Thinks He Made a Great Mistake.

STOCKTON Cal., May 9.—This is from an editorial in a local paper "Her Britannic Majesty's vice consul at Astoria, Oregon made a fool of himself the other day He was supenaed to appear as a witness in the federal court at Portland, but he had no idea that his official position that he thought himself exempt from the civil process of the country to which he was accredited He had a different view of the matter however after the marshal had induced him to make the acquaintance of a moreau judge Sawyer Edmunds thought nothing of going to London a year or two ago as a witness on the bare request of the Attorney general of England and he himself went on a similar mission and after giving his evidence was invited to a seat on the bench, and was consulted as to the law in the case What an incarnation of green ness this consul must think himself."

The constant travel and loss of rest so unnerved her that when still some distance west of Buffalo she became violently insane. She was affected by a dread that some one was going to kill her With great difficulty the conductor prevented her from jumping from the train with her child in her arms.

When the train reached here, she was taken to the lodging asylum with her child. The mental condition of the latter causes some apprehension

Mrs. Simmonson's husband is a prominent lumber dealer of Washington territory

ELLENSBURGH BUILDING.

Over 1800 Feet Frontage of Brick Business Blocks Already This Year.

ELLENSBURGH, W T, May 8.

Of the 600 people a day entering the territory via the different routes of travel, Ellensburgh is receiving her proportion, and every train brings accessions to her population Eastern capitalists is becoming interested in her resources and large investments are of almost daily occurrence. There is no doubt but Ellensburgh will become one of the large towns of Eastern Washington.

Mr Fish, the Elmira, New York banker who has made a number of investments in Ellensburgh and North Yakima during the past winter, has sold a considerable portion if not all of his property at the latter place and planted the proceeds in Ellensburgh His purchases last week included the 166 feet in front and in and 120x120 feet on the corner of Fourth and Pine streets, opposite the new Masonic temple Owing to the conditions of the sale of the corner mentioned, the construction of a 2 story brick block He also contemplates the construction of a 4 story brick on his property adjoining the Masonic building

A large number of brick building will be begun as soon as material can be obtained Hall Shipard & Co who have a brick yard in the city, will erect a pressed brick front on Fourth street In the rear of their present premises G B Hanson will erect a brick store building on the corner of Second and Pine, and H B G C Baker is making preparations to build a row of flats contiguous to the other rows, which have already under way, will make a total of over 1800 feet frontage for 1889 aside from the many small buildings to be erected.

The contract for grading streets has been let and work was begun this week It will make a decided improvement in the appearance of our city The electric light wires are to be run to churches and a number of residences this week and has almost entirely superseded coal in the business portion of town

Work will commence on the street railway in the very short time the franchise recently one mile of road to be built and in operation the first year

The people are more in earnest than ever regarding the proposed railroad to the Columbia, and the news received offers reasonable assurance that makes its early construction an assured fact It is but a question of time when Ellensburgh will control the trade of the Big Bend Methow and Okanogan countries, and will have communication with the Canadian Pacific by rail and water giving her the necessary competition in transportation facilities to reduce freights to the minimum on all goods coming from the East.

The two political parties have selected their candidates for the constitutional convention and are each confident of electing their man W H Peterson and J T McDonald carry the democratic standard, while A Rohn A Schaake and the representatives of the republican party Next Tuesday will tell the tale

The Ellensburgh Board of Trade has done much for the city and county during the year just past—more than many give them credit for doing It is an active organization and is composed of active men, who leave no stone unturned to attract attention to this town It has studiously avoided exaggeration in furnishing information to anxious inquirers, aiming to deal only with facts believing the truth to be good enough

At the annual election of the Board of Trade, held on the evening of the 7th, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year A Shoudy president W R. Abrams, vice president S W Barnes secretary (re-elected) R Kauffman treasurer (re-elected) Directors W Watson F Bossler A H Gross and H. C. Walters executive committee M J Maloney L. R. Grimes, Thomas Meagher, M Mitchell R Kauffman and A. N Hamilton finance committee.

Like all growing places Ellensburgh is visited by fakes of all kinds the jewelry sharp, with his glib tongue and cheap wares the scissors grinder, the legless concertina fiend, the bankrupt stock peddler, the enlarged picture solicitor are all have been here One of the latter gentlemen is just now the object of much wrath from one of his victims who contrac ed to pay him $60 for a crayon of himself and wife Now that he has received the pictures he discovers in the one intended for himself characteristics which he never before believed he was guilty of possessing, viz a woman's nose and a dimple in his chin He could stand the nose but draws the line at the dimple and therefore refuses to accept either picture

THE BURNING FORESTS

Many People Left Homeless by the Flames.

NARROW ESCAPES FROM DEATH

A Number of Small Towns Said to Have Been Destroyed—Other Reports Declare That the Damage Has Been Exaggerated.

MAPLESTE Mich, May 9—The terrible forest fires are still raging The village of Norway is surrounded by flames. All the telegraph wires have been down for two days but reports are now arriving of the terrible loss of life in the country recently settled by lumbermen

The flames started Tuesday morning, and swept across miles of dense forest until checked by rain in the evening Many homesteaders were burned out Great suffering is reported among women and children who could hardly breathe on account of the suffocating smoke Many reached the railroad tracks, and others sought shelter in the swamps, where by burying themselves in the mud and lying face downward they managed to survive the heat and smoke

Bruce Crossing was destroyed and Matthews' Wood was also burned, and many miles square are in ashes. Relief parties are out to look after those known to be in the burnt district. It is feared that many have perished.

Great damage was done at Anthony, a lumber town in the homestead country.

Vulcan lost a large engine house, several thousand cords of wood and twenty houses, the homes of miners.

Norway fought the fire on all sides for eighteen hours and was just on the point of surrendering when the rain came and saved the town

Fears are entertained of the loss of towns remote from the railroad

TRAINS DELAYED BY THE FIRES.

CHEBOYGAN, Mich, May 9—Forest fires are raging to an alarming extent along the line of the Michigan Central road On several occasions trains have been delayed for hours on account of the fires along the track, the dense smoke nearly stifling the passengers inside

GROSSLY EXAGGERATED.

The Losses by Fire in Northern Michigan Only of Minor Importance.

MARQUETTE, Mich., May 9—The Mining Journal will say to-morrow Misleading and exaggerated reports of the damage done by the forest fires in the Upper Peninsula during the early part of the week are being sent to the outside press by one or two special correspondents up here In a section where so many homestead and pre-emption claims were located by lumbermen during the past few years there were numerous "bush" fires Monday and Tuesday but no considerable amount of territory was burned over and the property loss is trifling

The station house was destroyed at Bruce's Crossing Tuesday and several settlers lost their shanties, with their contents and beyond this there was no damage in that region There was no loss of life reported

On the Menominee range, outlying buildings were destroyed at a couple of mining locations, and a tannic named Spaulding got a severe scorching some days ago, but there have been no heavy losses of timber or other property in this region.

A Vermont Village Nearly Destroyed by Fire.

ST JOHNSBURG Vt May 9—The business part of the village of Hanville was wiped out by fire in one hours this afternoon. Twenty three buildings, were burned and twenty seven families are homeless. The loss is $50,000, insurance, $20 000

SNEEZE BY A FREE TRADER.

PORTLAND, May 9.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

Mr DeLashmutt has gone to Washington in the interest of himself and other mine owners, and the Board of Trade has resolved to get a new ruling by the secretary of the treasury imposing a duty on lead contained in other ores brought into this country Since gold and silver ores usually contain more or less lead, the result of what is being attempted will be to exclude all rich ores produced from the mines of British Columbia from being brought into this country to be smelted. These mines are tributary to us. They promise to be as important a factor in the prosperity of this country and city as the mines of Coeur d'Alene The mines of Kootenai are being developed by American capital. These ores are shipped to American smelters. They supplied the ores purchased in our markets They have no other outlet or source of supply. It is a country tributary to us. To fence it out is to deprive ourselves of the advantages that have been given us If this is a good thing, then the more we can fence ourselves off from the more prosperous we shall be. The Spokane Board of Trade, following the lead of the Portland board, urges the policy of building a wall to keep the cheap lead British Columbia feeds crossing the line into our territory and thus destroying the market which the mines of this section create. Of course the tax upon the lead is to the upon ores, or rather the lead contained in the silver part of values and is for necessarily to that extent a tax upon the gold and silver contained in the ores and constituting its principal value. The idea of applying a protective tariff to the base metals in ores containing precious metals should be patented by the Portland Board of Trade. The genius who represented the Kootenai mines and the Spokane meeting should be dealt of energy, and be not get in first with a caveat. This fellow, who represented the mines of British Columbia, and who wants the ores of British Columbia taxed, has discovered, doubtless, that the more these ores are taxed the higher will be the price of the product, and then he will therefore get for his lazzel lead when he gets it here. The Mexicans, being a stupid people have not yet reached this stage of intellectual development.

The Portland Board of Trade is alive to the importance of the fact that gold and silver mines are promotive of the development and prosperity of the country, and it is needful, therefore, that mines be protected from competition by foreign mines, and since the multiplication of mines increases competition, the true policy must be to discourage their development. An important feature in the case will be the action of the Portland Board of Trade is solicitous as to the ability of certain mine owners to work their mines at a profit It has evidently not occurred to this body that the profitableness of working a mine may depend upon the richness of the ore to be worked. That while protecting our lead mines from competition with foreign ores which have been mined with cheap labor it must be remembered that the ore on the protection is concerned that labor is cheapest which yields the largest product, and that since the same amount of labor will produce in some mines many times as much lead as it will in others the labor employed in very rich mines is likely to be cheaper than the foreign lab rabout which the board is so anxious While the Portland Board of Trade makes it perfectly clear that the general prosperity is to be served by shutting out mining districts tributary to us—the other money by limiting the mines to be worked it is equally clear that upon the same principle the inter

GRAY'S ONE AND TWO-HORSE TREAD POWERS AND THRESHERS.

The general opening up of small farms in the timber belt of the Northwest and the inability to successfully handle large threshers in such country, or to make them profitable, owing to the great expense of their operation, has made absolutely necessary the use of our small Tread Powers and Threshers In the great grain-growing sections, also, the inability of the farmers to get their grain threshed at the time they want it, by reason of all the threshing crews being already employed, which delay often causes the loss of their crop, or great damage to it, makes it highly desirable for them to have one of our Tread Powers and Threshers. Those who are thus provided are enabled to thresh their grain when it is ready while the cost of the outfit is not so great as to make the investment at all a burden.

We guarantee our Threshers and Tread Powers to be the most perfect working and successful machines of their class in the United States.

PORTLAND, FRIDAY MAY 10

THE HEROIC IN HUMAN LIFE

On the 20th ult a boat containing twelve persons capsized in the Neoilet river at St Anne Quada Among these persons were one St Ours and his little 12 year old daughter S. Ours could not swim but supported his little girl with one hand while he clung to the overturned boat with the other Seeing that the boat was unable to float all off and clung to a couple of boards which had been on the bottom Finally a boat came to the rescue but before it could reach St Ours and his child one of the boards which formed their frail support was seen to drift away and it was also noticed that the remaining one was insufficient to float both It was then that the father's love and heroism showed itself Seeing no doubt that help could not arrive in time to save both he gave up his only hope He took a handkerchief from his neck and bound his child's arms to the board and then with a frantic cry for God's sake, save me sank to rise no more Almost the next instant the insensible child, bound to the board, was safe in the boat of the rescuers but the father who died to save her never reappeared on the surface

This was an humble but heroic man And yet Mr. Howells would vote him a morbid creature," we suppose. Out of such humble stuff as this poor French Canadian is obtained the heroic material of the best poetry and fiction. Nor is this an exceptional instance. Every year we read of some railroad employe who is killed while snatching women and children from the path of a rail road train, or of some humble miner who risks his life to save his fellows from horrible death.

The truth is that this heroic impulse is so common in times of great disaster and peril that it seems to be instinctive with a full-statured man. The heroic in human nature is natural and healthy it is rather the dude cowardice and the peddler meanness that goes with stunted body and mind, that is the unhealthy, morbid expression of human nature. The Trenton's cheer to the Calliope was worthy of a race in whose veins runs the blood of the old Norse Vikings, who met death with defiance on sea or land; and this is the spirit of the English-speaking race when it is represented by full statured men in body and mind whether high or low It is only the stunted, artificial aborted males and females that are not instinctively manly and heroic in times of real trial. The healthy human nature never lacks heroic types it is the unhealthy and aborted humanity that breeds the monkey, parrot and peacock cult that makes up the non-hero's backside of American life painted by Mr Howells and his ilk The heroic is normal and permanent, the non-heroic is the morbid and transient. In other words, the great novelist paints with colors that are always fast, while the Howe is tribe paints in water colors the pictures of creatures that are as fleeting as the fashions they follow and change with every season.

ARID LANDS MADE FERTILE

Australia is a good illustration of what can be done in reclaiming arid lands In 1828 one of the early explorers of Australia thus wrote of what he learned the desert interior

Cracked and gaping plains, desolate desert, and abandoned of life, scorched beneath a lurid sun of burning fire waterless, hopeless, relentless and accursed In the creeks weeds had grown and withered, and grown again the young salt bushes were now rising in their bare nourished by the moisture that still remained, but the large forest trees were drooping, and many were dead. The emus, with outstretched necks, gasping for breath searched the channels of the rivers for water in vain, and the native dog, so tame that he could hardly walk, seemed to implore some merciful hand to dispatch him.

The country which this explorer thus described in 1828 was a region now in New South Wales and Victoria just west of the line of the great Blue mountain range, and at the present time known as a very productive country These facts are taken from an article on Australia in the May Atlantic and they ought to go far to persuade the people of the West that the so-called desert lands can be reclaimed by systematic irrigation

The medical law passed at the recent session of the Montana legislature, is being vigorously enforced in the cities of the territory Traveling specialists are leaving in disgust, and "regulars" are correspondingly happy While such a law puts an effectual quietus upon quacks of the 'Gesmundo school, and keeps people whose minds are weakened by disease from running after "healers' and more mischievous pretenders it yet contains some features that are arbitrary and distasteful The privilege of choosing the man who shall minister to the bodily ails is one equally prized with that of choosing the spiritual adviser and abridgement of this privilege by laws is stoutly protested against by many in the name of personal liberty. Losing sight of the primary object of such a law the protection of the weak and suffering, who are ready to grasp at anything, however absurd that holds out a promise of relief, the enemies of regular physicians and their methods characterize such a law as class legislation' and cry out against it as despotic The public generally is, however ready to endorse a law that makes it impossible for the more mischievous and ignorant quacks to add to the great sum of human suffering, even if it bears with some severity upon the harmless class who are known as healers Christian scientists, etc who eschew medicine and essay miracles

Rev A J Brown in his address before the Boys and Girls Aid Society at its annual meeting Wednesday night struck the keynote to juvenile delinquency in their irresponsibility of parents Brought into the world without purpose, subjected to the influences of intemperance, licentious ness and anger now cajoled into a semblance of obedience by weak, ignorant mothers and again brutally coerced by passionate fathers it is no wonder that the care of boys and girls born to such parents and surrounded by the influences of the homes which they furnish them taxes the ingenuity of philanthropy to the utmost and that in spite of its best efforts the prisons of the land are recruited from the ranks of its young men Surely in view of these facts there is no hesitancy in answering in the affirmative the question Is it not time that parents were held to some accountability for the conduct of their children?

A recital of the circumstances by which a boatman lost control of his craft above the falls of the Willamette at Oregon City Wednesday afternoon and was swept to his death in the hissing waters recalls many an incident of pioneer days in which these falls then unvexed by the device of man swept in an unbroken line of foam and mist from shore to shore Transportation devices consisting of the canal and locks on the east side and the locks on the west side have destroyed the original features of the falls and rendered wholly unnecessary any risk to life in passing around them; hence the accident recorded must have resulted from the carelessness or recklessness of the boatman

Interest in the forthcoming constitutional convention is becoming lively in Washington territory. There seems to be a general disposition to rule woman suffrage out of the body of the constitution and submit it as a separate article, the adoption of which will be left to the people. In case this is done, the liveliest canvas ever made upon that issue may be expected.

PORTLAND AND VICINITY.

A LEFT CLOSE CALL.—Yesterday afternoon a farmer's double team attached to a heavy wagon loaded with wood and standing unhitched at the corner of Fourth and Taylor streets became frightened at a passing train and ran away. The animals took a reverse course down Taylor street, turning into Second when that street was reached. The horses continued their wild gallop down the latter thoroughfare until Ash street was reached, when they started to run up Ash street on the right hand side of the street until Third was reached when they started across the street, heading directly for a boy standing a little and her two children. While the occupants of the buggy noticed the runaway team it was very close to them, being not over seven feet away. The lady who was sitting in the front seat of the carriage comprehended the situation in an instant and with remarkable presence of mind reached over the back of the horse in front of her young son, snatched the reins from the frightened boy's hands and whipping up her horse, had the two teams drawing apart when the runaway team struck the rear end of the other buggy. It all seemed to take place in an instant, during which time those who witnessed the fearful scene expecting to see the occupants of the buggy thrown out and the vehicle demolished to pieces and the occupants very severely injured at least. It does seem that persons will never learn to hitch their teams when leaving them.

LOST, NEAR WIFE.—A young man giving the name of F G Beardsley called at the city department of THE OREGONIAN last evening looking the picture of despair. He stated that he had lost his wife and did not know where to find her. The wife and did not know where to find her. The woman reporters expressed their sympathy with the sorrowful looking individual but this was of little satisfaction. He said he came to Portland from Nebraska last January leaving his wife behind. Later he wrote to her asking her to come or when she got ready. On the 6th of April she telegraphed that she had started from Grand Island for Portland. Beardsley was at that time working near Eugene City and did not receive the dispatch for a week. On receipt of the same he found his wife was on her way to this city, leaving Grand Island on the first train leaving for Portland, arriving here May 7. He went to the International hotel only to find that his wife had left the day before saying that she was going to stop with a friend, since which time nothing has been heard of her. If she is in Portland at present, and chances to see this item she will do well by calling at the Information bureau at the International hotel where her husband is staying. He is, as can well be imagined, greatly worried.

FELL FROM A STEP-LADDER.—Willie Kent, a lad 9 years of age, living with his parents in the lodging house over the Banquet saloon, met with a fall from a step-ladder yesterday afternoon and was unfortunate enough to fracture both arms and one leg. He was standing on top of the ladder, when it reeled under him, causing him to lose his balance and slip in order to save himself he held out his hands and in reaching the floor the entire weight of the body was resting upon his arms. Both arms were fractured, and in several places, as was also one of his legs. The accident occurred between 4 and 5 o'clock in the afternoon, and the little sufferer was at once taken to the Portland hospital where the fractures were reduced. At last reports he was resting well, and it is thought that he will pull through all right.

ENGAGING THE TRADE.—Since the Idaho was put on the route to the Sound and British Columbia, said a dealer in flour yesterday, Portland is regaining her flour trade in that country. "How did you lose it?" asked a reporter. "Well, the Northern Pacific raised the rates from Portland to Seattle to shut out Portland millers and let in mills along their lines, but they succeeded in selling in California flour which could be bought there cheaper than we could supply under the rates charged. Then the O R & N Co put on the Idaho and the Northern Pacific had to put the rates back to the old figure and now we are working to get the trade back. The California flour is good, but not so good as that made from Willamette valley wheat, which is white and better and we are going to have the trade sure.

STRAWBERRY AND CHERRY CROP.—A lot of remarkably fine large strawberries was received from Mount Tabor yesterday. If we get fine weather there will be the greatest strawberry crop this year ever known. The cherry crop will be immense if no long continued rains interfere. There has been some complaint about the black republican cherries, the earliest, being already injured by the rain. A dealer who has been investigating this matter says there has been no harm done. The trees are simply overloaded and some of the cherries are dropping off which is a good thing. The showery weather hangs on well and would be all very well if it were not for the strawberries and cherries.

NEW WOOL ARRIVING.—Wool of this season's clip is beginning to come in and the market prospects are somewhat better. Captain George Pope & Co. have leased Columbia dock No. 2 which is about 100 feet, and fitted it up as a wool-packing house, with two new presses and other machinery of the latest pattern and they have already there 15,000 pounds of this season's clip from Grant and Gilliam counties and from the Klikitat. The wool from some sections this year is of superior quality, but from other sections it is very sandy and dirty. They have already received extensive orders, which seems to indicate that there will be a good demand for wool.

FAREWELL SERVICES.—The congregation of the First Presbyterian church will worship in the old edifice on the corner of Third and Washington streets, next Sabbath for the last time, as the chapel of the new church on the corner of Tenth and Alder streets is about ready for occupancy. For a quarter of a century the old church has been prominently identified with religious and philanthropic work in Portland and the Pacific Northwest, and the closing services are therefore looked forward to with much interest by the members of the congregation.

DEATH OF CHARLES STORY.—Mr. Charles Story died at his residence on Eighth street East Portland, yesterday morning at 6 o'clock, from quick consumption. Mr. Story was an estimable young man and very popular with all who knew him. He was married something over a year ago. He was in business with Mr. C. P. Forrmiller for some time, but was compelled to retire from the firm on account of ill health.

POSTAL INSPECTORS GONE.—The Portland division of the postal inspectors office has been consolidated with the inspectors office at San Francisco. Inspectors Trenkin and Speight left over land last evening for their new quarters. This consolidation of offices is not a just thing for Portland, as it will necessitate all business for that department going from here to San Francisco, en route to Washington.

GOING TO BUILD SURE.—The Portland, Mt. Hood & Eastern Railroad Company say they have not abandoned the scheme of building a road to Mt. Hood but are going to build it sure. The stock books are opened and stock is being subscribed. The company is awaiting developments in the new Siletz region as if this proves a success it will work a revolution in railroading.

"WHERE IS GEORGE MORRIS?

He Escapes From Jail, but When and How No One Seems to Know.

"George Morris stand up." These words were addressed to the prisoners in the police court dock yesterday afternoon by Deputy Prosecuting Attorney Simon.

As no one answered to the name the sentence was repeated but still no answer.

Then every one in the court room asked his neighbor "Where is Morris?"

"He must be in the dock with the rest of the prisoners," was the general reply but this was soon set at rest, after recovering their shattered senses, it dawned on the audience that another prisoner had made good his escape. Search was instantly instituted, but Morris was nowhere to be found, and considering the nature of the crime with which he is charged he has most likely left the city for good.

Just how and when Morris made his escape is not known, but it is thought that he suppled behind a door in the dark hallway leading from the court room to the jail below either while being taken back to his cell or after pleading guilty on Wednesday or in being taken out to the county jail last night. Sheriff Cleaver and his deputies are of the latter opinion, but Chief of Police Geer and his men think differently, and are inclined to think that Morris is still secreted in the city, but from other sources it is very sandy and dirty. They have already received extensive orders, which seems to indicate that there will be a good demand for wool.

MULTNOMAH S. S. WORKERS.

The Second Session of the Convention—A Pleasant and Profitable Experience—The Close.

The second session of the Multnomah County Sunday School Convention was called to order by President Ray at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the First Congregational church. The auditorium of the church was well filled by the workers of the city and county. Rev. Whittlesey conducted the devotional exercises, making a few well timed remarks on the subject of personal consecration in the work of the Sunday school.

This was followed by the report of Rev. W. S. Holt, secretary of the committee of the schools in the county, from which report the following facts are gleaned. There are forty nine schools in the county. Twenty seven out of the forty nine schools reported, which is the best report the convention has ever received. 250 were added to the various churches in the county from the Sunday schools reported during the past year.

The following officers were chosen for the coming year: President, L. Ray; secretary and treasurer, Rev. W. S. Holt; vice presidents—First district, Rev. A. W. Baxter; second, C. F. Seal; third, C. C. Hall; fourth, J. S. Royal; fifth, Phinpton Kelley; sixth, James Howey Wilson.

Then followed an address by Mr. C. H. Himes on "The Real Teacher," which was full of valuable suggestions. Though Mr. Himes is a layman he demonstrated his right to be heard by his admirable address on the above theme.

Following this was a most excellent address from Rev. J. V. Milligan on the subject of "The Teacher Prepared." He was confined to the private preparation of the teacher. Study the word of God first of all; study all the helps that could be secured; study how to apply what was to be taught.

Then came an address by Rev. C. E. Cline on "The Teacher in Council." All the questions of the school should be considered by the teachers in council. All branches of business and industry find it necessary to hold counsel. So the Sunday school teachers of a given Sunday school should counsel together concerning the interests of such school, with the pastor in the midst.

"The Teacher at Work" was the theme of Rev. C. C. Bateman's paper. His theme was unlimited and he, therefore, was free to pursue his own course, without any reference to what had been said before. First the teacher at work in his study, fitting himself for the great task in hand; second, the teacher before his class at work pointing them to the Savior of men, the end of all teaching.

After this address a few minutes were spent in discussion. The good solid valuable things said by all these workers in reference to the Sunday school teacher should have been heard by all the teachers of the county. It seldom falls to one's lot to hear so many good things in one afternoon. The Sunday school worker who was absent missed a rare treat.

The afternoon session was closed by the benediction by Rev. Cline.

THE EVENING SESSION

Was opened by spiritual singing and a season of devotion led by Mr. Wadhams.

Then came the address of the evening by Dr. John Gordon. His subject was, "The Teacher and Pastor." The teacher and pastor ought to know each other; to be intimately acquainted with each other. Their work is identical. They are to be helpers of each other in the work of converting souls and building them up to divine life. They are to be helpers of each other in the preparation of the lesson. The pastor ought to be leader of the teachers' meeting, because he is better supplied with helps than any other. He has spent more time in the study of God's word than any other. The pastor and teacher should know each other, that there may be uniformity in teaching in the Sunday school. The pastor should invite the classes and their teachers, in order, to his home, and thus increase the knowledge of each other. The visiting of a scholar is a rare thing. We lose immeasurably over the scholars by not visiting them. Another very important point should not be overlooked. The attendance of the children upon church services. The great danger is in that many of our children do not attend such services.

I am amazed, said the speaker, at the number of children who are growing up utterly ignorant of church services. In this our teachers are negligent. If this happy co operation should obtain between pastor and teacher the churches would enjoy a perennial revival, instead of a spasmodic one.

Rev. Porter of London, Ont., was introduced to the convention, and made a brief speech, full of happy illustrations and excellent suggestions.

The benediction was pronounced by Rev. Porter. Thus closed the best convention ever held in the country.

IN AND AROUND ALBINA.

Juvenile Chicken Thieves—Mission Services—Pleasant Surprise Party—On a Trip—Items.

Hans Holt and three other boys were arrested yesterday and brought before Judge Landsdale's court on the charge of stealing chickens last Saturday night from Alfred Pottage. The boys plead guilty. Hans Holt and George Keene were sentenced to thirty days in the county jail with a recommendation that they be given in charge of Ira Powers, to be turned over to the Boys' and Girls' Aid society.

It seems that a colored man named George, who kept a fish market here, was the instigator of the offense. He agreed to pay the boys 40 cents each for the chickens if the two lads get them, but failed to keep his word and after selling the chickens skipped out. A warrant is out for his arrest, and he will be brought before this court, and will find out that such business is not very profitable.

BAPTIST MISSION SERVICES.

The opening services in connection with the entrance of the Albina Baptist Mission into Union hall Sunday afternoon was largely attended and of great interest. About half of the large floor has been cut off for the use of the mission by a large curtain and has been fitted up conveniently so as to seat about 200 people.

Rev. George W. Hill, the city missionary who is in charge of the work conducted the service in introducing the exercises of the afternoon and the various speakers with a few appropriate remarks.

Professor Wilder of the Portland First Baptist church led in a spirited song service and also sang two beautiful solos.

Rev. Dr. Gordon, Rev. J. A. Smudgrass and Rev. C. C. Bateman each spoke happily and effectively words of encouragement and inspiration for the workers in this new interest. It is doubtful if ever before the people of Albina have had the privilege and pleasure of listening on a similar occasion to three speakers of equal force and ability. Quite a number of people were present from Portland and East Portland.

At the conclusion Mr. Hill thanked the visitors and the friends of the mission work for the interest expressed and spoke of a hope that it would not be long before he could welcome them all again not to Union hall but to a comfortable and commodious Baptist house of worship. The meeting was a great success in every way.

SURPRISE PARTY.

Last Tuesday evening a very pleasant and delightful surprise party was given to Miss Hattie Rand at the Albina school by a class of pupils in her room about thirty in number. At the residence of Mrs. James Randall. A number of the teachers and friends of the children were also present. The evening was spent in games, refreshments and harmless hilarity. All had a

Mr. Georg Ackleberger, long in the employ of the Terminal company, has been granted leave of absence until August 1st. He will visit friends in the Albina school by a class of pupils in her room about thirty in number. At the residence of Mrs. James Randall. A number of the teachers and friends of the children were also present. The evening was spent in games, refreshments and harmless hilarity. All had a GRAND TIME. And Miss Rand was presented a fine cruet and butter dish, a new and valuable present from the class. Miss Rand in explaining the cause of absence said that she had been thoroughly behaved. Her friends were glad to see her with us.

Mrs. F. Jones, teacher in the Albina school, has resigned on account of ill health and has gone to Spring Valley, California.

OUR COAST DEFENSES.

The positive testimony given by General Miles before the select committee of the United States senate at San Francisco on the 8th inst. ought to rouse congress to a sense of the importance of erecting proper naval defenses and fortifications for our coast. General Miles declares San Francisco absolutely open to destruction, since the naval vessels of even a third-rate foreign power could throw shell a distance of eight miles into the heart of that city, while we have not a gun that could reach the enemy in return. General Miles does not exaggerate the situation. Admiral Porter, the ablest and best informed naval officer in America, declares that we have so long neglected our opportunity that in the naval wars of the future the United States cannot hope to play a conspicuous part. Our government waited twenty years after the close of the civil war before commencing to rehabilitate our obsolete navy, on the plea that it was desirable to see what the powers of Europe were going to do, instead of doing what we once did, when America's genius took the initiative in producing the best steam and sailing vessels in the world. In consequence of this stupid policy we are to-day 65,000,000 of people, with a long line of sea coast, which is utterly defenseless against even the attack of a Chinese or Japanese ironclad. Admiral Porter says that our navy is a subject of jest among the Chinese, who since the civil war have seen nothing better than the "Richmond" and the "Brooklyn"—wooden vessels that won New Orleans and Mobile Bay under Farragut, but could not to-day under Farragut fight the ships of China and Japan. Admiral Porter believes that the naval wars of the future will be carried on among European powers. The United States will have but a small share in them, since the latter will not be willing to maintain a navy sufficient even to protect their coasts and seaboard cities. They will prefer to do as they did once with the Barbary powers, pay tribute!"

What a humiliating situation for a great and wealthy nation, distinguished in the past for mechanical skill and genius in naval architecture! And yet Admiral Porter says that we could, if we would, soon be equal to the best of European navies in line-of-battle ships and heavy guns. The admiral's experience with congress has probably brought him to the mood of despairing that the United States will ever again take her proper rank as one of the great naval powers of the globe.

The difficulty in all this matter of getting congress to authorize the construction of a powerful navy and a system of sea-coast defenses adequate to the protection of our coast is due primarily to the petty partisanship of the democratic party, which has always opposed everything in legislation that was likely to redound to the credit of the republican party. Secretary Chandler, under Arthur, was disposed to renew the strength of our navy, but he was opposed by the democracy at every turn. When Cleveland came into power Secretary Whitney was cheerfully supported by the democracy, and, receiving no factious opposition from the republicans, was able to accomplish something toward strengthening our wretched navy.

Turning from the United States to Europe what do we find? We find England with a splendid ironclad fleet carrying 547 heavy guns, and France with even a better ironclad fleet carrying 633 guns. We find Italy with six ironclad ships-of-the-line that in power and size exceed any vessels in the world. Russia has a navy that stands next in numbers and effectiveness to those of Great Britain and France, and Germany stands fourth, with an ironclad fleet whose guns are entirely equal to throwing shells a distance of eight miles into the heart of any of our seaboard cities. At present either Spain or Chili would be more than a match for the few armored vessels we can muster. Furthermore, England is not content with her present enormous armored navy. The naval scheme lately before the British parliament provides for the expenditure of $107,500,000 within four years, in the construction of ten battle ships and sixty cruisers. The largest ships now in the British navy have a displacement of 11,940 tons and a speed of sixteen knots. The three largest ships of the French navy have a displacement of 11,380 tons and speed of fifteen knots; but now the British government proposes to build eight ironclad line-of-battle ships, 2000 tons in advance of the largest vessels of either the British or French navies, with a speed of seventeen and a half knots. Of the sixty new cruisers, eighteen will be torpedo gunboats, with a speed of twenty-one knots, while the remainder, ranging from 2000 tons to 7300 tons, will have a speed of twenty knots—a speed equal to that of our new American cruisers. The British navy, besides these new vessels just ordered, has fifty-one cruisers that can steam from fifteen to eighteen knots. It is perfectly clear that England is determined to outdo France and Italy in line-of-battle ships, and to at least equal the United States in the speed of her cruisers. The government declared in parliament that England, to defend her coasts and naval stations, must have a fleet equal to the united naval strength of any other two countries in Europe. In event of war the United States could not at present play "Alabama" with the British shipping, for it would be protected by a fleet of sixty twenty-knot cruisers that can cross the Atlantic at full speed, so great is their coaling capacity. This enormous addition to England's navy was made on the professional opinion of naval experts that England, without these new vessels, was powerless to protect her commerce on the high seas in a great naval war against hostile alliances between France and Russia, or France and Italy, or France and the United States.

When we reflect that only $25,000,000 would be necessary, in the opinion of General Miles, to put our coast in a state of sufficient defense against the ironclads of any foreign power, it is a source of national humiliation to think that the work was not ordered and begun five years ago. The pitiful weakness of the United States navy and our coast defenses is the more inexcusable, because the complete change in naval warfare, where science largely usurps the place of seamanship pure and simple, ought to be to the advantage of Americans, who before the war led the world in steam engineering and mechanical genius. We can make as good guns, serve them as well, make as good an ironclad, fit her with as fine steam motive power and handle her as well as any people on the globe; and yet here we are to-day, as General Miles points out, without either ships or sea coast fortifications. Suppose to-day we had a magnificent navy-yard in Puget sound, what protection would such a valuable bit of government property have against the heavy guns carried by the small ironclads of the English navy? These light ironclads would make short work of such a navy-yard. Why? Because, as General Miles points, Puget sound is entirely destitute of defenses of any sort. It looks as if it would be wise to build some defenses for the Sound at the same time that a great and costly navy-yard is built, so that the navy-yard will not find itself naked to our enemies. The mouth of the Columbia of course ought to be fortified, and at the same time the channel ought to be deepened to thirty feet. This has been done at the mouth of the Mississippi, and it can be done with that of the Columbia.

WATER COMMITTEE MEETING

Some Important Business Transacted by the Members Yesterday.

Preamble and Resolution Adopted—Mr. Failing Gives Some Very Excellent and Practical Views—April's Report.

An adjourned meeting of the water committee was held yesterday, Chairman Henry Failing presiding and Messrs. F. C. Smith, F. Dekum, W. S. Ladd, A. H. Johnson, T. M. Richardson, J. Loewenberg, W. K. Smith and C. H. Lewis present.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

CITY PARK RESERVOIR.

The sub-committee reported that at their meeting on April 23 the superintendent presented maps, plans and estimates for a reservoir in the city park to hold 28,000,000 gallons of water. The cost was estimated at $88,000 and the map showed that the reservoir extended a short distance beyond the west line of the park into the land of A. N. King, and it was ordered that the cost of said land be ascertained.

Mr. Ladd said that Mr. King had agreed to examine the land and fix a price thereon, but the matter had been put off on account of the weather. On motion the committee was granted further time to attend to this matter.

BILLS AND WARRANTS.

Warrants for the disbursements of the water works office amounting to $3020 29 were authorized.

The bill of the Oregon Iron and Steel Company for $12,753 56 for pipe was ordered paid.

PETITIONS FOR PIPE EXTENSIONS.

In regard to the petitions for mains in Q and Montgomery streets, Superintendent Smith reported that a line on Q street, from Twenty-first to Twenty-second, would cost $52, and on Montgomery from Twelfth to Fourteenth, $189. He stated that there was sufficient pipe on hand for these extensions, but it would leave no reserve for elevators or other extensions.

On motion of Mr. Ladd, the superintendent was authorized to put in the pipe petitioned for.

THE TOOL HOUSE.

In regard to making a tool house at the old reservoir on Fourth street, Superintendent Smith reported the walls of the old reservoir could be leveled for $1200, less the value of the stone, about $500. The tool house might then be moved on the place for $250. Gates could be cut in the walls for $125, and the tool house raised to the top for $225.

The matter was referred to the committee, to have the work done as they deem best.

MONTHLY REPORT.

The operating department submitted the regular monthly report for the month of April, as follows:

Earnings	$10,906 99
Disbursements	3,837 70
Cash on hand March 31	$20,068 29
Receipts for April	10,706 00
From city for March	200 00
	$30,972 53
Disbursements	$ 3,352 39
Paid Treasurer	20,000 00—23,375 14
Balance on hand	$ 7,575 14

On motion the report was ordered filed.

SPRINKLING THE SIDEWALKS.

Superintendent Smith asked for information in regard to the charge for sprinkling sidewalks. The hours for irrigating are limited, but sidewalks are sprinkled all day by some.

Mr. Ladd moved that the time for sprinkling sidewalks be confined to the same hours as allowed for irrigation; carried.

PREAMBLE AND RESOLUTION.

Chairman Failing, having called Mr. Ladd to the chair, offered the following preamble and resolution and moved their adoption:

WHEREAS, The increasing consumption of water consequent upon the rapid growth of the city and a due regard for the public safety and convenience demands that this committee use such means as it has at command, whether in bonds or prospective revenue from the works in obtaining a more abundant supply.

Resolved, That the committee take immediate steps to contract for an additional pump and the construction of an additional pipe line from Palatine Hill to the Sixth street reservoir.

Mr. Failing said a large reservoir had been talked of, and, while it would be necessary in connection with the proposed gravity water works, if built now it could only furnish a supply for a day or two in case of accident to the pipe line. The consumption of water was increasing, and he therefore thought it was the duty of the city to furnish a further supply of water.

STATEMENT SUBMITTED.

Mr. Failing submitted a statement of the average and maximum amounts of water pumped daily during every month in the past three years. The average daily amount in April, 1886, was 3,442,000 gal ons; in April, 1887, the average daily amount was 4,310,000, and the maximum 4,730,000; in April, 1888, the daily average was 5,300,000, and the maximum 6,141,000; for April, 1889, the average was 6,08 ,000, and the maximum 7,429,000.

GREAT INCREASE IN DEMAND.

This gives an idea of the increase in the amount of water used, and April, 1889, as the maximum of one year is about the same as the average of the next. Of course in June, July and August of each year the quantity pumped is much larger than in the other months. In July of last year the maximum was 8,979,000 gallons per day.

MR. FAILING'S VIEWS.

In giving his views on the subject of increasing the facilities for supplying water, Mr. Failing said:

The construction of an additional pipe line from Palatine to the station has been suggested by members of the committee on two or more previous occasions, but has not heretofore received much consideration because it has, I think, been generally assumed that an addition to the pumping station would be required, and that expense, with additional pumping machinery and a new pipe line, would be very greatly in excess of the means which are at hand. With this view of the matter there has been a general concurrence in the wisdom of building a large reservoir in the city park, capable of holding five or six days' supply, as the best protection within our means, and also in line with the Bull Run project. I have until lately held this opinion, but after the last meeting of the committee, at which time one of the members (Mr. Lewis) suggested the building of an additional pipe line, I requested the superintendent to investigate and ascertain whether it would be possible to put another pump at the Palatine station without enlarging the building. Upon his report that, with some inexpensive changes another pump could be placed in the present building, an approximate estimate was made of the cost of an additional pipe line. The result of the estimate is, that the $100,000 bonds which we are authorized to issue, together with the surplus earnings to May 1, 1890 (perhaps during the current year), will cover the cost of the work.

A reservoir as proposed would serve for a temporary supply in the event of a break in the present pipe line, but it would not augment the current supply, and that is what is urgently needed. It is estimated that the cost of a pump capable of supply of 10,000,000 gallons per day, and a new pipe line of twenty-four inches in diameter, would cost approximately $150,000. Whether the pipe line should be 20, 22 or 24 inches, or whether the pump should have a capacity of 8,000,000 gallons daily or over, is a secondary matter, and can be considered hereafter, when the cost and means at hand have been more carefully computed. The question to decide now is whether we shall use all the means at our command in procuring an increased supply. Another five-million gallon pump and additional pipe line would practically double the capacity of the works. It is suggested, however, by the superintendent, after conferring with the agent of the contractors who furnished the new high service pump, that a high duty pump of 10,000,000 gallons capacity might be more economical. Such a pump would give all the supply needed for the greater part of the time, with the present pump in reserve.

The marked increase in revenue, so much beyond the estimates made by your sub-committee in December last, taken in connection with the statistics prepared by the superintendent and now placed before you—demonstrate both the necessity of additional supply as speedily as possible, as well as an ability to pay for the construction in a much greater degree from the revenue from the works than has hitherto been thought possible.

It is natural that there should be some hesitancy in incurring so large an expense for a pipe line, etc., which may and probably will be abandoned in the near future; but if the revenue continues to increase in the present ratio, two years' earnings will be sufficient to defray the entire cost, should the estimates prove to be less than the actual cost, and the prospective earnings be overestimated, I still believe the necessity of a future supply so near at hand is sufficient to justify the committee in incurring a temporary debt, and I believe the committee will fail in its duty if it neglects to take steps at once in the construction of the pipe line.

I do not wish to underrate the necessity or desirability of a reservoir as now planned, but I believe the additional pipe line should be the first work, and it may be that the increase in revenue will warrant that undertaking during the next year.

Although I have moved to adopt the resolution, I will withdraw the motion if do not wish to press it to immediate action, unless every member of the committee is ready to consider it now, and am willing that it shall be referred to the sub-committee for construction for consideration, and report to the committee at its early day.

FAVORS THE RESOLUTION.

Mr. Dekum said: "I am in favor of this resolution. I do not see how we can get out of furnishing water is necessary for the safety of the city, and the full supply of water for the city. It will be two years before we can get any legislation and four years before we can get Bull Run water in, we cannot have a city without it. We must face the music. The plan proposed in this resolution is a good one and ought to be carried out at once. It is not worth while to dilly dally about it.

THE RESOLUTION ADOPTED.

Mr. Ladd said he was in favor of putting in a reservoir; the pump and pipe line were more desirable and should be put in first as they were necessary for the safety of the city.

Mr. Lewis moved the adoption of the resolution and Mr. Dekum seconded the motion, which carried unanimously.

Mr. Ladd moved that the sub-committee proceed in this matter and that the superintendent be directed to make a report as to the capacity of the pump and the size of the pipe line he would deem best to put in, and the estimated cost thereof, and submit the same to the sub-committee.

The motion carried and the meeting adjourned.

LA GRANDE.

Union County's Metropolis Still on the Move—Promising Crop Prospects.

Branch Road to Elgin—O. R. & N. Improvements—Local Enterprises and Industrial Notes.

LA GRANDE, Or., May 8.

One of the most significant indications of La Grande's permanence and growth is the large number of residences recently constructed and new ones under way, there being at this time at least fifty dwelling houses in different stages of progress. Hardly a day passes that does not note the commencement of a new dwelling—all of which is an undeniable evidence that the town is progressing. It is asserted without fear of contradiction that during the past year La Grande has built more dwelling houses according to population than any other town in the state, and the present indications are that progress in this direction during the coming year will considerably exceed that of the past twelve months.

There is great interest developing over the proposed building of a branch of the O. R. & N. from LaGrande to the Wallowa country, thirty miles of which extending via Summerville to the town of Elgin is to be built during the coming year. A party of surveyors have made a preliminary survey through the Grand Ronde canyon north of this valley, and Mr. Watts, agent for the O. R. & N. Co. this week concluded the purchase of a portion of the right of way. This branch will tap a rich agricultural and timber section, and has become an essential part of the O. R. & N. system. The vast amount of freight business from this section has helped to make LaGrande the largest shipping point on the O. R. & N. line outside of Portland, the the freight receipts at this station averaging about $25,000 per month, or over a quarter of a million dollars yearly. The railroad company has recently made considerable improvements at the LaGrande yards in the way of additional sidetracks, and are now putting in scales to facilitate shipments in carload lots, and are also enlarging the LaGrande stockyards to double their present capacity.

The new city charter, which takes effect on the 22d inst., gives the council enlarged powers, and it is expected that extra inducements will be offered for the establishment of an electric light plant, an oatmeal mill, a new hotel, and other improvements. The citizens of La Grande have awakened to their many advantages, and realize the fact that their town is interested in the welfare of an extensive country, unsurpassed in natural wealth and resources, and invite all who are seeking investments to the extraordinary opportunities that are here to be had. All possible information will be promptly furnished by the La Grande Board of Trade.

A liberal amount of rain during the past ten days has freshened the appearance of Grand Ronde valley, and farmers are confident of abundant crops and a prosperous season. It long ago ceased to be a question with the Grand Ronde farmer as to the matter of producing a crop, as a crop failure was never known, and the only question of interest is the speculation as to how much larger than ordinary the crops will be. Thus far the prospects for this season could not be more favorable, and an average of 30 to 50 bushels of wheat to the acre is confidently counted on.

A brick making firm started operations about three weeks ago, and the prospects of extensive sales of their products has induced a second enterprise of the kind, which commenced operations last week. The new plant will be put in running order as rapidly as possible in order to meet the demand for brick.

The La Grande Creamery was put in operation this week. Routes have been established for the gathering of milk and cream, and the creamery will be kept in steady operation, with facilities for using 14,000 pounds of milk daily.

The Fearey Elevator Company have concluded the purchase of ten lots as a site for their big central elevator, work upon which will be commenced in a few days.

FEMALE FARMERS.

Will the coming young woman be a farmer?

Scattered all over the broad prairies of the Northwest are hundreds of self-reliant, true-blue young heroines, living in small, isolated cabins call ed shacks, proving up claims, entering homesteads and making money.

It is lonesome, dreary business, this living alone on a wild, unsettled prairie, without a face or human form to welcome one or cheer one's solitude, but there seems to be a good many young women who have the grit to hang to this solitary life long enough to prove up a claim at least.

Four young ladies in Dakota last year put their heads together and hit upon an ingenious plan, whereby they could each secure a claim and yet all live comfortably together in one house and each be upon her own land. Instead of building four shacks with one room each, they constructed one shack with four rooms, but so nicely planned that each room of the square building was on a different quarter section. Each had her own bed in her own room and in that way each claimant at night slept upon her own land.

Society ladies of the city will wonder, not so much how these young lady settlers get along without social privileges, as how they dared live so far away from the doctors. Why, bless you! they never thought of being sick. Doctors are not half so much of a household necessity as city people are in the habit of thinking.

For all the ordinary ills of life, the old-fashioned roots and herbs remedies are more effective, and much safer in results, than modern doctors' pills and potions. These latter are so radical in their effects that, while they may better meet the modern desire for quick results, they frequently permanently injure the system, nature rebelling against the unnatural methods employed.

It is always safest to follow natural methods in treating disease. The old-time roots and herbs remedies, which our good old log cabin grandmothers knew so well how to prepare, were the best medicines the world ever knew, because they were nature's remedies.

The modern world needs them. In Warner's Log Cabin Remedies, and especially such as Warner's Log Cabin Sarsaparilla and Warner's Log Cabin Cough and Consumption Remedy, the people of to-day have an opportunity to secure the healthy medicines which our rugged ancestors used with such splendid results.

THE COEUR D'ALENE MINES.

Suspension of Work, Its Causes and Consequences.

Wardner News.

The suspension of operations in the Bunker Hill and Sullivan mines has been a general topic during the week, and has drawn forth much comment from all interested in the welfare of Coeur d'Alene. The closing has not been brought about by any hasty conclusion, but from mature deliberation on the part of the company, who considered it the most advisable course to be pursued at present. The freight rates demanded by the Northern Pacific Railroad Company were greatly in excess of what the owners of the mines could afford to pay. Had the market price of lead kept up to a moderate figure work would undoubtedly have been continued, but no concession being made by the railroad company in view of the falling off in the value of lead, the Bunker Hill & Sullivan company were forced to the course they have adopted. It is hoped that on the meeting of congress some legislation will be had to enforce the payment of the duty on the importation of lead from Mexico, which at the present time is very large. This of itself would act as an important factor in the resumption of operations in the Bunker Hill and Sullivan mines. As matters now stand with these two great ore producers, the public while neglecting to do so, should look hopefully toward the future. A force of men is still retained upon the main development work of the mines and will continue operations uninterruptedly. The News is informed by Superintendent Clement that no more work will be done in the present concentrator, but the erection of a mammoth mill will be commenced as soon as desirable rates can be obtained from the railroad companies. From present appearances it is safe to predict the completion of the W. C. L. road to Kellogg at an early date next fall, while there is every indication of its being ready for traffic to the St. Joe river early next month.

The Bunker Hill & Sullivan Company have two plans in view for connecting the mines with the mill site on which the new concentrator will be erected. One is the erection of a Bleichert wire tramway, which would be two miles long with a fall of 910 feet. The other proposition is the building of a railroad with a track of four miles, a survey of which has been already made.

Wire tramways, as a means of cheap transportation, possess many advantages. As feeders to established systems of railroads their low cost of construction through mountain where, from the rugged contour of the surface ordinary railroad construction is scarcely practicable, except with long and costly detours, has made them of late very attractive to the miners of the West. The company has not yet decided on the mode of transportation to be adopted, and as the capacity of the new mill will be from 400 to 500 tons per day the consideration of the system is a matter of much moment.

ACROSS THE WILLAMETTE.

The Work on Hawthorne Avenue Being Pushed Rapidly Forward.

Watch Thief—He Went to Sail—Killing Pigeons—Camp Meeting—Various Improvements—Going to Pendleton.

There is considerable activity on both the Hawthorne avenue and Mount Tabor extension of the Sunnyside railway at present. On the Sunnyside extension the grading is practically finished, and track-laying will be commenced at once. Iron for the track is now being taken out to the present termination of the line at Sunnyside.

Work is in progress all along the Hawthorne avenue. Track laying is progressing well and has nearly reached the Sunnyside trace. There is quite a fill being made east of John Dolan's place, and there will be a deep cut in the road in front of his place, the earth being removed from the cut to the depression just eastward. It was stated by one of the men yesterday that the motor for the line was expected to arrive in June, and that the road would be completed by July.

At Asylum creek, where the big fill will be made the large terra cotta pipes have been placed in position.

All along the avenue new buildings are springing up on both sides.

TIMBER DISAPPEARING.

A force of men has been engaged for some time clearing a tract of land on Hawthorne avenue, and yesterday evening had cut and burned nearly through an immense tree that stood near the avenue, and expected it would come down at any moment. A Chinaman came along with a heavy load and rested under that tree. Some amount of persuasion could induce him to move, but it was explained to the Celestial that likely he would come down on him, but his only answer was, "No sabe." The East Side man lingered around for some time in the expectation (not hope) that the tree would fall and smash the basket the Chinaman was carrying, but it did not happen. It seemed a great pity that the mighty monarch should go. It was certainly the largest fir tree left standing between East Portland and Mount Tabor. In a very short time the trees and stumps within that space will all disappear, and the cleared lands be built up with homes.

IMPROVEMENTS.

Burkhard & Robertson, who purchased the Hall & Stott building on the corner of Fourth and J streets, will remodel the third story into small rooms, and the following bids were received and opened by the office on Otto Kleeman: J. S. Toombs, $2181; C. G. Blashely, $2199; P. C. Landin, $2546; J. E. Woods, $2795; E. J. Sheuman, $3255.

Bids were also opened for a large building on the corner of Third and I streets for Charles Logus, as follows: E. J. Sheahan, $7741; L. J. Switzer, $8771; P. C. Landin, $3380; J. E. Woods, $4225; J. J. Toombs, $4486.

SNATCHED A WATCH.

Frank Darling was standing on I street yesterday afternoon, near the Chicago hotel, when a man stepped up to him, and snatching his watch, attempted to make off with it. He was prevented, however, and Officer Gatchel, who was only a short distance away at the time, placed the fellow under arrest and lodged him in the city jail. When he jerked the watch he broke off about two inches of the chain. The fellow said he had been working around the city for the past few days, but more than likely he is some transp.

TRANSFERRED TO THE CITY JAIL.

Yesterday afternoon, as Officer Gatchel was taking to the city jail the fellow who snatched Darling's watch, he saw a man sitting on some barrels in front of Ack Sing's wash-house, on I street, in a drunken stupor. Having his hands full at the time, he passed on to the jail and then came back. He found that the fellow had fallen off of the barrels on the sidewalk, where he partially blocked up the passage. Unable to get him to the city jail in the usual way, he put him into an express.

TO BE TAKEN TO PENDLETON.

Dr. Wigg stated last night that Mr. E. C. Wheeler will probably be removed to Pendleton, starting there this afternoon. The change is contemplated for the reason the air is much lighter there than here. During the day Mr. Wheeler gets along, but at night when the air becomes heavy he becomes worse. It is thought he can be removed to Pendleton in safety. Mr. Wheeler has always been a public-spirited citizen, and has the sympathies of every one.

KILLING PIGEONS.

Complaint comes that some boys have been killing pigeons belonging to different citizens. They have done the killing with ordinary bean-shooters. It is suggested to these boys that while they may be fun in killing the pigeons, it is another side of the matter. People do not want their pigeons killed, and will take measures to stop the "fun" if the boys do not desist themselves.

ADVENTIST CAMP MEETING.

Active preparations are being made for the annual camp meeting of the Adventists, on Sixth and S streets, which commences May 14, and continues until May 22. Many tents are already up and quite a number of people have assembled on the ground. The meetings bid fair to be a success, judging from the interest manifested and the preparations going forward. Several able speakers are expected from abroad. The public is cordially invited.

PERSONAL AND GENERAL.

Captain Grounds and family, of Astoria, have removed to this city and will reside in Stephens addition.

Members of the jury in the Coone case desire it stated that they recommended the cost be taxed to the prosecution.

THE FUTURE OF PASCO.

Cosy Homes and Fine Farms Surround It on Every Hand.

Here Is Found the Most Fertile Soil of the Inland Empire—Men of Prosperity Show Their Faith by Investing There

Pasco, W T May 8.

"There is beauty in extreme old age"—as we sing it in Gilbert & Sullivan's "Mikado." It may seem that there is the same anomaly to be met when we write of the attractions and rapid growth of Pasco, at the junction of the Northern Pacific railroad. In mentioning Pasco we might say, that in point of beauty it is 'a diamond in the rough,' but 'beauty is only skin deep,'" and the pretty and attractive towns are rarely ever visited by a boom. Like a lovely woman whose face is her fortune, a picturesque town, laid out in diamond shaped flower beds, with beautiful shade trees has generally no great amount of money to back and encourage valuable metals, and awake some day to find herself famous.

If green grass plots and shady streets seem essential to a town, how rapidly they are desecrated when activity begins. Before a town which has been laid out merges into a city its forests are laid low hillsides leveled, and the sod turned over. Native beauty must be, destroyed that commerce may grow. It is a well known fact that no less attractive site for any town could have ever been discovered than the original site of the phenomenal cities of Chicago Kansas City and Washington, D C. The city of Paris is wholly an artificial city in point of beauty, and in point of beauty she stands at the front in all the world to-day.

In practical life it is always "the unexpected that occurs," and now that Pasco is attracting the attention of successful and moneyed men, we wonder why we are surprised, and why we had not possessed the requisite sagacity to have told you so."

Were you to tell the cursory traveler or sightseer, who has "done" Washington territory and Oregon during the past two years, that he had passed by the richest and best yielding soil in the state and territory when he passed by Pasco Junction, he would probably laugh at you in derision, but the investigator who has the trip in view will do well to profit by the ignorance of tourists and home-seekers of the past If he makes Pasco one of his first objective points he will be amazed when he "hears what we heard and sees what we saw."

He will be surprised to find that the outskirts of the town have more people than the town proper, that cosy homes and fine farms are to be seen on every roadside and the deep rich green of waving fields of grain are in happy contrast to the sage brush plains, which in good time will also be converted into tree clad ma, wheat fields or possibly growing orchards, which require but three years' time to become marvels in fruit bearing. One orchard, which we saw about a half mile from Pasco was a wonderful picture in variety and development of fruit at this time of year Added to all the varied fruits and berries which are common to this world renowned territory, we find not only the most phenomenal yield but growing side by side with fruits the hardy trees found in Maine as well as both sod and green which grows here in the greatest perfection.

We saw peach trees not so high as a man's head loaded with bunches and clusters of peaches apricots, nectarines cherries, prunes pears apples and all small berries while the melon industry has no many localities in Eastern Washington are jumps, seems here to have reached the acme of perfection

This is a wonderful tobacco growing country, and sweet potatoes and peanuts grow abundantly It is thought that magnolia tree could be grown here to advantage It would be a delightful acquisition in tree culture both for its shade sweet aroma and the beauty of its bloom All well known forest trees are already found here, and with irrigation all the choice trees found in our Eastern states, and as far south as Tennessee, could be easily cultivated The variety quality and growth both in the cultivation of trees and cereals looks like a miracle growing out of what is commonly supposed to be unproductive sandy soil.

This sandy soil is the richest soil in the world It can be plainly seen from the composition and the deposit that this was once the bed of an ocean and the manner in which it yields is as if the ocean were now yielding up the treasures of the deep of first age.

Pasco and the surrounding country has more the form of a basin than valley It is over 700 feet nearer the sea level than the rest of the territory, and this gives it an advantage in early vegetation In 1885 peach trees were in bloom on the 23d of March, and if one should go there to-day he would find all kinds of garden vegetables and fruit two weeks in advance of any other locality in Washington territory

A RAILROAD JUNCTION AND SHIP YARDS

Pasco is the junction of the Northern Pacific railroad and its branches, and the O R & N, via Wallula. This in itself would make Pasco an important point. It is also the nearest center to which timber and iron are shipped East, from immense amount of lumber west of the Cascades, which is shipped East, meets the iron manufactured in the East which is shipped West at Pasco, and here is the natural distributing point. This added to the advantage of having both the Columbia and Snake rivers tributary makes it a practical point for shipbuilding. There have already four fine river steamers been built at this point during the past year, and six more large steamers will be built here before this season is ended.

The Frederick E. Billings, the largest boat on the Snake or upper Columbia rivers, has just been finished and put afloat. It is a magnificent steamer, 200 feet long, and forty-eight feet wide, and a credit to the builders. It will be run on the Columbia River Pasco has two of the in the West crossing the Snake and Columbia rivers. The bridge crossing the Columbia is three quarters of a mile long, and is an iron bridge Until this bridge was completed the people of Pasco were constantly fearful lest their town should be removed, but the building of these two bridges has settled the permanency of the location and some of the town site owners are among the most prominent citizens of Portland Seattle and Tacoma, men who have heretofore been known as keen and successful investors.

PASCO A CANDIDATE WHEN THE RELOCATION OF THE STATE CAPITAL IS TALKED OF

The history of the several states and territories establishes the fact that the capitals thereof had a migratory existence. Of the forty nine states and territories in the United States, forty of them have changed the location of the capital during some period of their existence in either territorial or statehood form By this assertion let it be understood that this change has either been actual from one location to another or in the change of name In the majority of instances the change of location occurs about or following the advent of statehood, although some of the territories have changed the location of their capitals during territorial form To carry this suggestion still further it is safe to say that of the two hundred and seventy two capitals or governments of the world, of which forty nine are in America a change in the location at some period of their existence has occurred in over half of them The United States being conspicuously prominent in this direction. It is therefore a justifiable action in any locality whose geographical position admits of its candidacy, to seek, and the doors and particularly so in a Washington territory town when this change is the subject of daily conversation at this time

When such announcement is made or repeated as has long since been made that Pasco is a bona fide applicant for capital honors an unusual shadow may flit across the face of the reader, but "he laughs best, who laughs last." If the surface surroundings of Pasco in its sage brush environments and sandy soil accompaniments is not inviting let it be remembered that Denver, one of the most beautiful cities in America

SOLDIERS PAVE A BANQUET.

The Fourth Annual Banquet of Oregon Commandery of the Loyal Legion.

Grand Army Hall the Scene of a Great Deal of Martial Jollity—Captain R. R. Tuttle Elected Commander.

Grand Army hall was full of jollity last night, that jollity that asserts itself when the boys who wore the blue meet to tell tales of the war and discuss the savory viands. It was the fourth annual banquet of Oregon Commandery of the military order of the Loyal Legion of the United States, which is composed of men who served as officers of the Union army in the great struggle for the abolition of slavery and for national unity. At 9:30 fifty-one gentlemen seated themselves around the tables, that groaned beneath the weight of good things provided by Fred Lonsdale. General William Kapus, the retiring commander, sat at the head of the table, with General John Gibbon on his right and Mr. H. W. Scott on the opposite on his left. The others present were: Colonel D. S. Stanly, Captain G. E. Curtis, Major J. F. Candy, Colonel John M. Drake, Major A. E. Harrington, Lieutenant George C. Sears, Lieutenant Thomas A. Jordan, Lieutenant William Kapus, Captain E. K. Lombard, Major A. F. Sears, Lieutenant W. J. Shipley, Captain R. R. Tuttle, Dr. William M. Watkins, R. M. McElroy, Colonel Charles F. Beebe, General W. H. H. Beadle, Captain J. M. Ba...ck, Major H. C. Bostwick, Captain M. Crawford, Captain J. E. Haynes, Captain J. A. Varney, Captain George W. Hanna, Lieutenant J. S. Berry, Captain J. C. Ainsworth, Lieutenant W. S. Myers, Lieutenant W. N. Ladue, Captain F. O. McGowan, Lieutenant W. S. Newbury, Lieutenant E. Martin, Lieutenant S. B. Tyree, Lieutenant G. W. Tompson, Lieutenant J. C. Negler, Colonel F. T. Gilbert, Lieutenant R. G. O'Shea, Lieutenant W. S. Shanklin, Mr. E. M. Carr, Lieutenant C. M. Hobson, General John Gibbon, Colonel T. M. Anderson, Lieutenant Arthur Murphy, Captain W. H. Patten, Colonel Robert Caldwell, Captain C. A. Woodruff, Major H. E. Jones, Lieutenant I. D. Gossinger, Colonel W. H. Hancock, Major D. W. Burns, Major S. S. Turner, Major W. E. Waters, Major M. Marcus, General Rufus Ingalls, Mr. W. H. Bell, Captain J. A. Sladden.

The hall presented a pretty scene. There were potted plants on the tables at different points also along the walls, which were adorned with pictures. The west platform was covered with potted plants and over it was suspended a large ball of lilies and rosebuds. Retired Chairman Kapus on the right was a large painting of U. S. A. Ledge. In the center of the hall, on a table, whose legs represented cannon, was a large, beautiful bouquet of cut flowers, and above it, suspended to the round chandelier, was another large bouquet. In the entrance was an arch of evergreen, and the discussion of dinner was enlivened by musical strains.

The champagne corks had been popping for an hour when Chairman Kapus, at 9:30 rapped for order and bid all a hearty welcome to the festal board. He then delivered a pretty address, touching on the Loyal Legion, and the service the Union soldiers did for their country. The other toasts responded to were as follows:

"The President of the United States"—Colonel S. B. Harrington.

"The Loyal Legion"—Colonel T. M. Anderson.

"The Volunteer Soldier"—Comrade E. R. McElroy, department commander, G. A. R.

"The Regular Army and Navy."—General John Gibbon.

"The Men in the Ranks"—Captain C. A. Woodruff.

"Our Departed Companions"—(In silence.)

"Remembrance and Wives"—Major J. H. Hayden.

"Fife Firing"—Volunteers.

"Our Wives and Sweethearts"—Captain C. A. Woodruff.

"The Press"—Mr. H. W. Scott.

The music was [illegible] aspect and spurred the martial spirit of the veterans. They clapped their hands to keep time with nearly every selection, and joined in the "Old Folks Left Behind Me" prolonged bits of enthusiasm.

The programme rendered by the Aerial orchestra was as follows:

Quartet of the Period	Mozart
"Forth with Music Sounds the Trumpet"
Selection—"Norma"	Bellini
Fantasia—"O, Fair Dove"	Schlesgerrell
Cavatina—"Ernani"	Verdi
Waltz—"Those Laughing Eyes"	Farbach
Lancers—"Grand Army"	Koon
Serenade	Pettee
La Paloma	Valenzuela
Galop—"The Last Charge"	Borger

Before the banquet the Loyal Legion held a business meeting and elected the following officers: Commander, R. R. Tuttle; senior vice commander, Colonel Thomas M. Anderson, U. S. A.; junior vice commander, Major J. E. Canby, U. S. A.; recorder, Captain G. E. Curtis; registrar, Lieutenant W. J. Shipley; treasurer, Lieutenant-Colonel John M. Drake; chancellor, Captain Joseph A. Sladden; U. S. A. chaplain, Captain E. J. Babcock, U. S. A.; members of council, Major J. H. Woodward, Lieutenant John D. Geoghegan, Major Wm. McMicken, Captain S. F. Stadtan, Lieutenant D. Woodward, Captain Benjamin H. Tuttle. The new commander of the commandery was mustered into President Lincoln's first call for troops in April, 1861, and shouldered his musket in the ranks of the First Connecticut infantry. He was at the first battle of Bull Run and when the connection that it entered was still running high he returned home and enlisted in the First Connecticut cavalry. He served two years in the ranks and as a non-commissioned officer and went home the captain of his company. Captain Tuttle was in General Sheridan's corps and General Custer was his division commander. He was at Winchester when Sheridan made his famous ride and his regiment escorted General Grant to meet General Lee at the surrender at Appomattox. Captain Tuttle was mustered out in August, 1865.

Colonel Thomas M. Anderson, the new senior vice commander, is the commander by brevet of Vancouver barracks. He comes of good fighting stock, being a nephew of Major Anderson, the gallant defender of Fort Sumter. He enlisted April 20, 1861, in the ninth Ohio Volunteer infantry and was shortly after transferred to the Fifth cavalry and then to the Twelfth infantry, a battalion of which he commanded during the remainder of the war. He was attached to the army of the Potomac and took part in sixteen battles.

"THE OLD SETTLER."

Chairman Kapus thought that singing would be most appropriate to the present and called on Captain Tuttle and Majors O'Brien and Hayden to favor the banqueters. They sang "Rally Around the Camp Fire" amid great enthusiasm.

Major O'Brien then sang "The Old Settler." He was frequently interrupted with applause, and after he had finished, Captain Tuttle arose and said he had been requested to announce that Major O'Brien was in the real estate business at Olympia. This sally caused a great deal of enthusiasm. Appended is Mr. O'Brien's song:

I'd wandered all over the country
Prospecting and digging for gold—
I'd tunneled, hydraulicked, and cradled,
And I had been frequently sold.

Chorus—
And I had been frequently sold,
And I had been frequently sold.
I'd tunneled, hydraulicked, and cradled,
And I had been frequently sold.

For one who gets riches by mining,
Precisely as that hundreds grow poor,
I made up my mind to try farming—
The only pursuit that is sure.

Chorus—
The only pursuit that is s-u-r-e, etc.

So rolling my grub in my blankets,
I left all my tools on the ground,
And started one morning to shank it,
For a country they called Puget Sound.

Chorus—
For a country, etc.

Arriving flat broke in mid-winter,
I found it enveloped in fog,
And covered all over with timber
Thick as hair on the back of a dog.

Chorus—
Thick as hair, etc.

As I looked on the prospect as gloomy
The tears, trickled over my face,
For I felt that my travels had brought me
To the edge of the jumping off place.

Chorus—
To the edge, etc.

I took up a claim in the forest,
And sat myself down to hard toil.
For two years I chopped and I niggered,
But I never got down to the soil.

Chorus—
But I never, etc.

I vowed to git out of the country
If poverty forced me to stay
Until the fine timber fell settlers—
There nothing could drive me away.

Chorus—
There nothing, etc.

And now that I'm used to the climate,
I am glad that I came to the soil,
A spot to live easy and happy
That Eden is on Puget Sound!

Chorus—
That Edenic on, etc.

No longer the slave of ambition
I dream of the world as it rolls
As I think of my pleasant ranch
Surrounded by acres of stumps.

Chorus—
Surrounded by, etc.

MOVED AFTER THIRTY-EIGHT YEARS.

An Old Land Mark to Give Place to a More Pretentious Structure.

The house at the northeast corner of Ash and Second streets, which has stood where it now is for thirty-eight years, is vacated, and about to be removed to make room for a handsome new structure which Mr. D. P. Thompson and the Burrell estate, owners of the whole block, propose to erect there. This building will be brick, with stone piers, much in the style of the Sandmore into a five stories high, as strong as brick, stone and cement can make it, furnished with freight elevator and all modern improvements. It has been leased for a term of years. The New Market block is found not large enough for the business of Masten, Shover & Walker, and they have applied to Mr. Thompson and Burrell to put another story on that already imposing structure, and it is probable that this will be done while the other building is being built.

The house above mentioned was built by Judge Cyrus Olney, and was sold by him to Captain Alex P. Ankeny, who occupied it for many years. The house then stood in the center of the block, and was surrounded by a fine garden of flowers and fruit trees. These disappeared and the house was moved to make room for the New Market theater. It is probable that before the owners are through, the whole of the buildings in the block will be five stories in height.

CLAIMED BY TWO WOMEN.

The Law Is to Decide Whether Lorenzo Winters Has Committed Polygamy or Not.

Lorenzo Winters, of Greenhaw, Multnomah county, was arrested on Wednesday evening on a charge of polygamy, preferred by a woman who gives her name as Mary Baker Winters, and claims to be his lawfully wedded life. He was to have had an examination before Justice Tuttle yesterday afternoon, but owing to the absence of an important witness the hearing was continued until to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Winters claims to be innocent of the charge, and says he has ample proof to corroborate his denial. He says he was married his first wife in 1866, with whom he lived twenty-four years, until she died in Powell's valley in 1888. Three weeks after the funeral he went East to visit relatives. Near Syracuse, N. Y., he became acquainted with and married a Mrs. Mary Baker. The latter told him that she had been married, but had a "bill of separation," from which he inferred that she had been divorced. After arriving in this city, Winters alleges he learned over the woman had no legal right to marry him, and they separated, she giving as a portion of his property, but not deliver at the hands of the law.

Winters has subsequently married one Hannah E. Hansen, with whom he is now living, believing that he had a legal right to do so.

After his separation from his second matrimonial partner, Winters claims she signed the application which he supposed would release him from any connection with her.

THE CRIMINAL AGREEMENT.

"I, Mary Baker Winters, hereby state that on the 15th of November, 1886, at Syracuse, N. Y. I was married to one Lorenzo Winters, and came with him to the state of Oregon, living with him as his wife until about the 3d of April, 1888. At the time of such marriage with Winters, one George Baker, to whom I had been previously married, was living, and then in Seattle, N. T. I had never been divorced from said Baker, but we had been separated about twelve years by articles of separation, and I supposed that I had a right to marry again.

"I am now advised that my marriage with said Winters was not lawful and absolutely void. And being desirous of returning to my former home, I have this 9th day of June, 1888, accepted and received from said Lorenzo Winters the sum of $150 in full satisfaction of all claims and demands of whatsoever nature or kind that I may or might have against him by reason of our relations aforesaid, or otherwise. And I hereby agree to return to my former home within six months from date hereof.

MARY B. WINTERS."

Sworn to and subscribed before me on this 18th day of June, 1888. B. F. ROLLINS,
Justice of the peace, Powell valley precinct.
Witnesses—Mrs. J. C. Shoover, J. C. Shoover.

ACCIDENTAL DROWNING.

The Coroner's Jury Believes This Is How Dennis Kelly Met His Death.

Coroner DeLin held an inquest yesterday afternoon on the remains of Dennis Kelly, drowned while attempting to board the steamer Willamette, on which he was employed as coal passer, Wednesday night.

Captain J. H. Shannon of the Willamette, the first witness testified: I knew the deceased; his name is Dennis Kelly; aged about 30 years; an Irishman by birth; he was employed on the Willamette as coal passer; about 11 o'clock last night I heard some one cry out that a man had fallen overboard. I immediately dressed myself, and came on deck; I ordered the officers of the ship to get a grappling iron and recover the body; we worked for about an hour, last night, and being unable to find the body, gave up the search until this morning, when the dragging was again commenced, and the body found between the steamer and the dock. This is all I know of the affair, with the exception that the body at the morgue is the remains of Dennis Kelly.

Peter Quelitz, a coal passer employed on the Willamette, testified: I was acquainted with the deceased, Dennis Kelly; I last saw him alive last night between 11 and 12 o'clock; we were coming up to underneath the coal pockets to go on the ship; we had had a few glasses of beer, but Kelly was capable of walking; he was not intoxicated; he was walking along near the prow of the coal packet when he said, "that is not our ship." I left him to go ahead and find the gangway; I found it and the next minute heard a splash in the water; I ran back shouting that a man had fallen overboard; I called to Kelly to hold on the side and I would get help; I looked down where he had fallen, but saw no signs of life. In my opinion Kelly, after I left him to look for the gangway, fell while trying to step from the wharf to the bulwarks of the ship and missed his footing.

Several other witnesses were examined, but their testimony did not differ materially from the foregoing.

Thomas B. Perry, M. D., testified: I have examined the body of Dennis Kelly and found no marks of violence on his body. On examination of his head I found a lacerated wound of the scalp, beginning near the crown of the head, extending forward about two inches, leaving the bone of the skull bare. There was no fracture of the skull. The injuries were not sufficient to occasion death. In my opinion death was caused from drowning. He might have struck his head against something while falling and become unconscious and unable to make an effort to save himself.

The jury returned a verdict of accidental drowning.

WILL ARRIVE AT 4 P. M.

Z. T. Wright's Immense Train of Advance Threshers to Arrive in Portland To-day.

The large train of Advance threshers from Battle Creek, Michigan, will arrive in Portland at 4:30 this afternoon. This is the only special freight train that ever crossed the continent that had a special painted name on it for the entire trip. The C. B. & Q. & R. R. had this special time card painted before the departure of the train from the East, and it has been run on strictly schedule time all the way through. There are those threshers on this single train than any firm in Portland has ever yet shipped during an entire season. In addition to the threshers on the train, of which there are seventy-two, there are a number of engines and horse-powers in the consignment. It is learned from Mr. Wright that this shipment is only a portion of the order that he has already placed with the Advance Thresher Company for this season. To give some little idea of the importance of this shipment, it can be stated that if these threshers were strung out one behind the other they would reach for nearly a distance of twelve blocks. The train is in charge of Mr. Clarence L. Wright, a younger brother of Mr. Z. T. Wright, and the former enjoys the distinction of making the first visit to the coast in the full enjoyment of a special train, he being the only passenger on this train. Mr. C. L. Wright expects to make his home in the future on this coast. It is further learned from Mr. Wright that last summer he was short over thirty machines, and it was this that induced him to make this enormous shipment this year. He will make every endeavor to fill all orders received during the present year, but he advises all parties who desire threshers to send in their orders as early as possible. Mr. Wright says that the Advance thresher is the only machine in the market that will stand crowding up to its full capacity in constant threshing and not waste the grain, and as farmers are like all others of the human, they making every attempt to do everything in a hurry, they have found by careful trial that the Advance thresher is the best machine in the market to-day. Mr. Wright extends to all interested to call and see the big train come in. His immense warerooms and offices are at the foot of Morrison street, and he will take great pleasure here in explaining the merits of the Advance thresher to all who may be interested in it.

JANAUSCHEK'S FAREWELL PERFORMANCE.

The great tragedienne, Janauschek, and her excellent company gave their farewell performance at the New Park theater last night in "Meg Merrilies." There was a good house, and the ever-varying, critical situations of this thrilling play were followed very closely by the eager listeners. Janauschek acted the part of the weird witch Meg in her usual faultless style, and the rest of her company were fully up to the usual standard in the delineation of their respective parts.

The company left on the 11 o'clock train last night for Tacoma. Two engagements will be played at the opening of the new theater at that place, and then the company proceeds to Seattle, where they will hold the boards for three nights.

FRANK JACHETTA'S TRIAL.

He Answers the Charge of Killing Charles Olsen Last February.

The Prisoner Claims the Deed Was Committed in Self-Defense—Testimony—Bad Character of "Crowbill"—Case Argued.

Frank Jachetta, the little Italian who shot and killed Charles Olsen in a row February 17, was tried before Judge Stearns, in the criminal court, yesterday. He looked worried, as if he had been brooding, and was a trifle nervous; still, he told his story in a straightforward way, without blanching, and withstood the cross-fire well. In recounting the circumstances attendant upon the tragic death of Olsen, he gave dramatic representations of the pummeling he received and other incidents connected with the killing.

The prosecution had been unable to find "Skookum" Bill, who was with Olsen when he was killed, and his principal witness was James Riley, a witness to the fatal quarrel. His story was that Jachetta struck Olsen first, for which he received a blow in the face that shattered him. Olsen then retreated, and Jachetta, regaining his feet, drew his revolver and fired, saying, "Take that."

JACHETTA TELLS OF THE KILLING.

After counsel had finished a squabble, Jachetta was sworn. Laboring under the disadvantage of being unable to speak English he told what seemed to be a straight story and adhered to it with a tenacity that baffled every effort of the district attorney to shake him.

He said that on the night of the shooting he ran across Olsen and his companion, Skookum Bill, somewhere in North Portland on the Cowlitz or Lebon of a man called Frank Wiese who there met Olsen and the other man saluted him, "Hello, Dago money." Just then Frank, the saloonkeeper, came up to the two and addressing Jachetta, said, "What are you doing with these loafers; why don't you go home?" Jachetta said he then started for the Rome hotel, but after Frank had left Olsen and his companion took him to a saloon, but the bartender refused to give them drinks. He then made his second start for the hotel and when he reached it he found the door locked. Not willing to go home and the river he returned to First street, when the men took hold of him and conducted him to another saloon. Jachetta noticed from the signs made by his companions and the bartender that they intended to rob him, shot the bill so he took out his pocket book and laying ten dollars he counted he was out. Olsen and Skookum Bill followed, and overtaking him on the side walk, caught him around the neck, and without saying a word, began pummeling him. Then they knocked him down and kicked him in the nose, back and breast. Jachetta said he caught hold of a bar or awning, and repeatedly his last, fired at random.

"Why did you shoot the pistol?" asked Judge Caples.

"The men were beating me and I was afraid of my life," answered the witness.

"Were you bleeding?"

"I was bleeding from the face and mouth."

District Attorney Markham put Jachetta through a severe cross examination, but failed to shake him. He tried to make the witness explain why he did not kill Skookum Bill also, as he was as guilty as Olsen.

"Why did you not fire two shots instead of one?" he asked.

"I was stunned and fired at random. I fired to save my life because I thought it was low."

"Why did you not kill the other man?"

"I did not want to kill a hundred men."

L. P. Kendall, a saloonkeeper, testified that on the night of the shooting Jachetta, Olsen who was drunk and the other man were refused drinks at his place.

Frank Obsima, a saloonkeeper at No. 85 North First street, said he advised Jachetta to go home when he saw the three men together. One of the men, a small man, presumably Olsen, said, "We have you now." Jachetta then drew a knife and Olsen and Skookum Bill took him to First street.

Dr. Keyes said of examining Jachetta four days after the shooting, and finding him bruised, the effect of the thrashing he received.

The principal witnesses of the attorney was over the conclusion of testimony as to Olsen's character. Judge Stearns overruled the prosecution's objections, and Officers Belcher, Branch, James Miller, Hickey, Wasco, Hoxie and several others said Olsen was a bad man. Then several Italians witnesse gave the prisoner a good character.

Judge Stearns adjourned the court at a little past 5 o'clock, and stated that there would be an evening session at 7:30 P. M.

At the appointed hour court reconvened, and the taking of testimony for the defense was resumed. Several more witnesses were called to testify regarding the good character of the defendant, Jachetta, and with that, all the evidence was in.

The case was argued by counsel and the court adjourned at a late hour.
